DEDICATION

The Class of 1955 is proud to dedicate this, its Liber Actorum, to its admired and respected friend, John J. Doyle, in grateful appreciation for his untiring service to the school as a master, as a leader and adviser, and now as Head Master.

FOREWORD

For a period of 320 years Latin School has been preparing boys for liberal arts colleges by means of its vigorous insistence on a classical curriculum. The usefulness of this course may be questioned by modernists and so-called practical men, but the school continues to hold to its objectives. We live in an era in which science and technology are dominant in the pattern of life and consequently in the realm of education. Of late, complaints about the inability of high school graduates to write satisfactorily, read understandingly, or figure accurately have become more and more frequent. The explanations for this state of affairs are many; but one of the most reasonable is the de-emphasis and decline of the classical disciplines, once considered essential to the successful training of our youth. These "disciplines" have disappeared from the curricula of most schools.

Latin School, however, has stood firm since 1635. We are proud of that fact, for the proof of the value of our course may be found in more than three centuries of well-tested experience. It may be proved by listing the many graduates who have become prominent, even famous, in the learned professions, the arts, or commerce and industry. It is our good fortune to be students of a school with a tradition and a history such as ours.

We feel, therefore, that it is only fitting to honor our alumni and their accomplishments. As we honor them, we are in fact, paying tribute to the School.

Let us, the Class of 1955, in the future be worthy of them, and Boston Latin School.

HEADMASTER'S MESSAGE

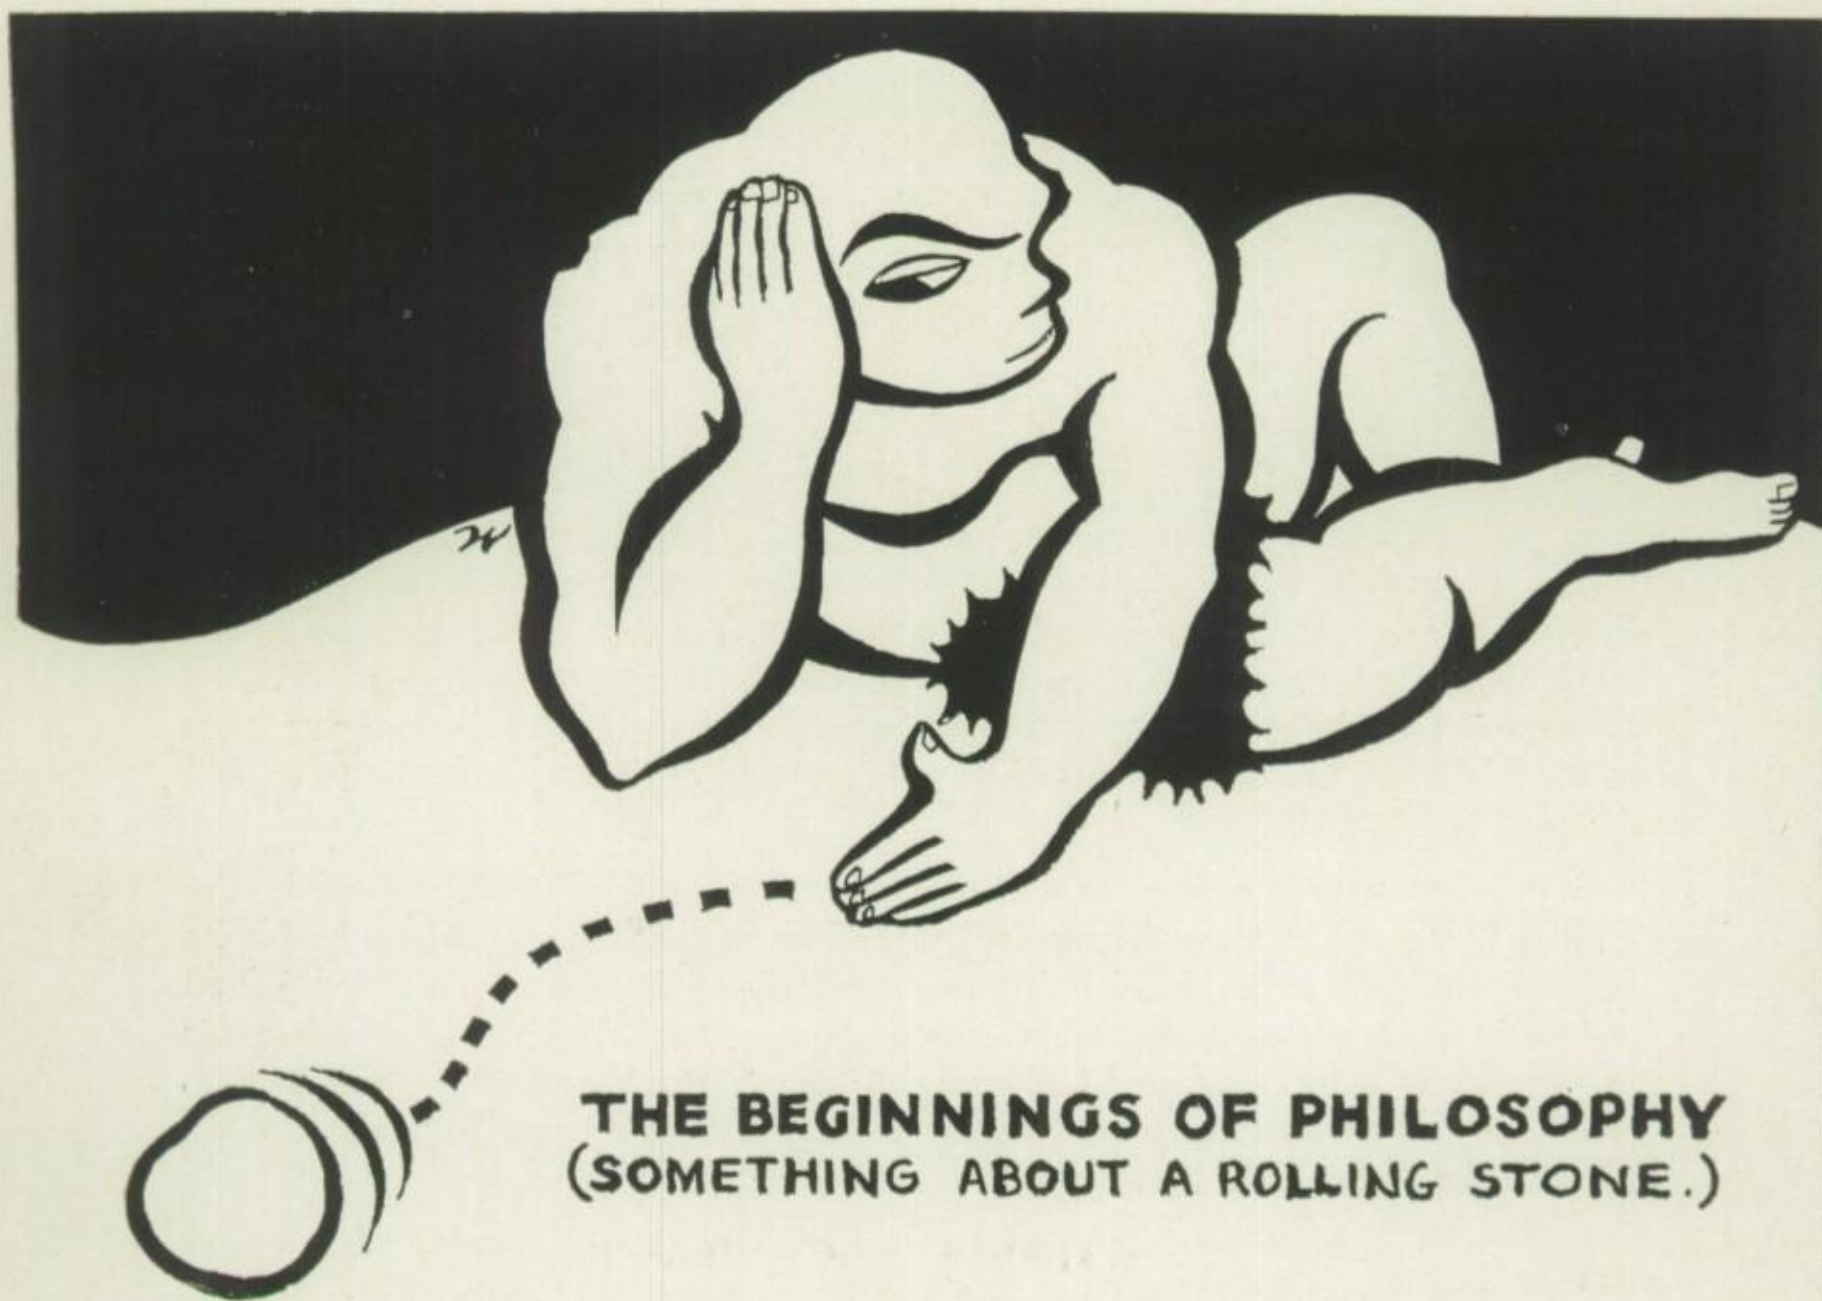

It is with great pleasure that I speak to my first Graduating Class at the Boston Latin School, the Class of 1955. During my years here as Master and later as Head of Department I had little hope that I should one day be speaking to the Graduating Class as the Head Master of the school. During the past year you have done much to make me proud of you and of the school you will represent in your later years. You have helped to maintain the high standards of the school and to uphold its traditional ideals.

You are leaving us as graduates of the oldest public school in the United States. You have become alumni of an institution world-famous for its classical course of study and its rigorous standards of discipline. You have joined the ranks of an alumni body famous the world over for its high type of character and its unquestioned success in all walks of life. Many honors may come to you, but none will surpass the honor conferred upon you when you are granted a diploma from the Boston Latin School.

You have been successful in a hard and tedious battle. Many boys who entered the school with you have fallen by the way. They either did not have the will to work or lacked the mental equipment necessary for the tasks set for them. You have proved your worth. You have persevered in a task that took every ounce of will, energy, and intellect you possess. You have conquered yourselves; and, despite handicaps and disappointments, you have succeeded where others have failed. You have a right to be proud of your success.

Your parents are proud of you today. You should be very proud of your parents. You should be thankful that God has given you parents who have stood by you in all your trials and tribulations; who have been interested enough in you and your welfare to make the necessary sacrifices so that you might have a Latin School diploma; and who have made the plans necessary to send you on to college. You should be thankful to the City of Boston and to all its citizens, who have provided you with this fine building and its excellent corps of instructors, so that you might have a good start on your way to success. The best way you can express your appreciation for all that has been done for you is to continue the same high type of work in your future endeavors that you have done here.

If you make a success of yourself in your chosen field, you will have shown us all the appreciation that is necessary. You have already shown that you have the ability and perseverance necessary for this success. Never let up! Make us all proud of you in whatever field you select for your future life.

THE BEGINNINGS OF PHILOSOPHY (SOMETHING ABOUT A ROLLING STONE.)

LEARNED PROFESSIONS

The learned professions include gratifying careers in education, philosophy, the ministry, and medicine.

Education has been the life-work of such outstanding Latin School graduates as John Leverett, President of Harvard University, 1707-1724; Samuel Langdon, President of Harvard, 1774-1780; and Thomas Pynchon, President of Trinity College. These men and hundreds of other teachers, professors, and administrators who began their schooling at Latin School have succeeded in a profession not highly paid, but highly rewarding. Adding to the academic reputation of Latin School and contributing to the culture of the world, Santayana and Emerson are two graduates of the school known wherever men read as among the great philosophers. Numberless physicians have prepared for college at B.L.S. — among them, Dr. Jonathan Warren, Dr. Nathaniel Shurtleff, and Dr. Freeman Bumstead. Outstanding members of the clergy among our illustrious alumni include Bishop Fitzpatrick of Boston; Bishop Matthew Harkins of Providence; the famous orator — Phillips Brooks; and Bishop John Wright of Worcester.

It has been the tradition and good fortune of the Latin School to prepare great numbers of graduates for study leading to these professions: educators to guide the way, thinkers to keep the world steady, physicians to cure the sick and to keep men well, and religious leaders to sustain them spiritually.

FACULTY

GEORGE SANTAYANA, Class of 1882

Born at Madrid,, educated at Harvard, University of Berlin, and Cambridge, George Santayana became an instructor at Harvard and later a professor of philosophy. The by-products of his chief philosophic concern, the relation of reality to experience, resulted in many illuminating studies in literary criticism, esthetics, and morals. His writings are distinguished for their clear, brilliant style and their broad human point of view.

RALPH WALDO EMERSON, Class of 1818

Although descended from a long line of ministers and having prepared himself for the pulpit, Emerson resigned his post at the Second Church of Boston after a short time. He settled in Concord to lead a quiet, meditative life. His philosophy, closely identified with transcendentalism, was apparent in all of his writings. He has been recognized throughout the world as an outstanding American essayist.

EDWARD EVERETT HALE, Class of 1837

An active and forceful figure in the philanthropic movements of his city and time for over fifty years, Edward Everett Hale, after serving as a pastor first in Worcester and later in Boston, became the chaplain to the United States Senate. He is known chiefly because of his patriotic novel, The Man Without A Country.

ENGLISH

The chief aim of the English department is to enable pupils to use their language correctly through work in grammar and composition. It also tries to inculcate a love of reading in the pupils by the study and interpretation of many of the great books of our literature.

The English department takes special pride in the outstanding record of the Register in the national competition conducted by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. For eleven successive years the Register, under the direction of Mr. Marson, has led all other schools in its class (1500-2500 pupils) and gained the coveted Medalist award (a special prize for unusual distinction) six times.

Another feature of the work of the English department has been the Declamation program, which has been carried on almost from the earliest days of the school. Each boy may compete with other boys five times a year, before three teachers, for the privilege of speaking in the Public Declamations, which occur five times a year and are open to parents and friends. Twelve or more of those speakers adjudged the best are selected for the Annual Prize Declamation in May. A combination of the school marks with the marks of judges selected from distinguished graduates determines the award of prizes. Mr. Neville and Mr. Frank E. Sullivan, who have had charge of the Declamation programs in recent years, have kept up the high standard of their predecessors.

ANCIENT LANGUAGES

In the study of Latin we have two sets of aims: the specific and the more general. Specific aims include the ability to pronounce and read Latin; the acquisition of a Latin vocabulary; the mastery of Latin forms; the ability to apply simple, fundamental rules of syntax; the ability to turn English sentences into Latin; and the ability to translate easy Latin at sight. The more general aims are accomplished through the study of Latin and Latin authors. One of these is the increased ability in the use of English, with a better understanding of vocabulary and a knowledge of the simpler principles of language structure. This accomplishment should bring about also a greater ability to learn other foreign languages.

From the study of Latin authors should come the development of a historical and cultural background with (a) increased knowledge of the life, history, and institutions of the Romans; (b) an appreciation of Roman influence on Western civilization; and (c) a broader understanding of social and political problems of today. From the study of Roman literature there should also come about the development of a right attitude toward social relations: service, self-sacrifice, patriotism, honor, respect for authority, self-control, love for law and order, loyalty, courage, and the like.

Finally, the study of Latin should bring about the development of good mental habits, such as accuracy, thoroughness, logical thinking, sustained attention, perseverance in the face of difficulties, and dissatisfaction with failure or with only partial success.

MATHEMATICS

Boston Latin School, for over three centuries a rigid adherent to the classical tradition, has nevertheless, always given adequate and timely attention to the mathematical sciences. From the days of its founding mathematics and the humanities have complemented each other in the mental training of its students.

At Boston Latin School the pupil is offered a completely integrated and organized course in arithmetic; informal or intuitive geometry; algebra; formal or demonstrative geometry (plane and solid); trigonometry (numerical at first); and, finally, to members of the Senior class preparing for entrance into scientific schools and universities, the elements of analytic geometry and the calculus. This complete, well-rounded course begins in Class VI and runs continuously through the six classes in such a way as to show how these various subjects are related one to another and in order that they may reinforce and supplement each other when used in practical situations.

In these days, which have witnessed a most dramatic upsurge of interest in the technical sciences, this bastion of classicism has always kept and sometimes even set the pace. As a projection into the future, there is right now a course in elementary statistics in the planning stage. It is our conviction that the notions of probability, correlation, and sampling are among the fundamentals of modern social measurement. In addition, we feel that the student, especially one planning to concentrate in science, should learn both that mathematics has uncertainties and that uncertainty can be mathematically treated.

The mathematics department at Boston Latin School is resolutely determined to be always au courant in its special field and to preserve, and if possible enhance, its long-established and universally recognized standards of excellence.

GERMAN

At the end of the freshman year all boys must make a choice for Class III between the two electives, Greek and German. Roughly speaking, three out of four boys elect German, which they must then study for at least two years. In the Senior year German becomes an elective. Usually about thirty boys continue the study for the third year. These boys, who have shown proficiency in the language, prepare themselves by diligent work to win extremely high marks in the German Achievement Test for college entrance and to obtain scholarship awards.

Of the class of 1954 more than fifty per cent of the Senior German class continued successfully the study of the language at college. Boys of only two years' preparation have also been able to continue the study — especially at M.I.T., where, after a refresher course, they proceed with the work in scientific German.

The good results prove that, during the two years of preparation in German, great efforts are made by masters in the German Department to give a sound foundation in basic vocabulary and elementary grammar. Pupils are taught, by constant practice, to read and write the language and, by means of easy conversation and special language records, to understand and speak it. The German Department insists that boys also learn the essentials of geography and culture of Germany and follow pertinent current events.

The German Club, sponsored by Mr. Herbert Zoll, but run by the boys themselves, presents programs of interest to students of German. Members listen to speakers, see films, and read newspapers to make their meetings worthwhile.

HISTORY

The organization of the Boston Latin School by departments allows and encourages specialization within a certain area of educational activity, but collectively the several departments should strive to achieve the common objective of a liberal arts education. However, this common effort should not preclude a friendly inter-departmental rivalry which can be both stimulating and productive.

Traditionally, history is one of the humanities, and necessarily the teaching of history is an important part of a general program directed toward the education of the free man. The history department, in this common endeavor of educating the free man, has established specific objectives: (1) to encourage a critical approach to the problems of history, (2) to present history as a dynamic subject, (3) to encourage independent reading and exploratory work beyond routine assignments, (4) to develop the ability to interpret the present in the light of past experiences, and (5) to train young men for the duties and obligations of citizenship. At the same time, the unique character of this school thrusts upon us a peculiar responsibility. We are training not only for citizenship but for leadership. Generations of leaders who have attended the Boston Latin School remind us of the school's great and challenging mission in this democracy.

In recent years many students in the history department have brought honor to the school and to themselves. Each year since 1947 a Latin School boy has won first prize in the Hearst American History Contest, and, for the past four years with the exception of one year, first prize in the Massachusetts Federation of Labor Contest. In the College Board examinations the results have been creditable and satisfying. The Head of the history department appreciates the unselfish assistance and cooperation given him by the masters within the department.

SCIENCE

Four years of science are offered at Boston Latin School. In Class VI, science is mainly physiology and hygiene. Topics considered are composition and structure of the body and the hygienic principles and practices of good living in school and at home.

Science, offered also in Class V, is usually called General Science. The subject area deals with the materials and forces of Nature and Man's utilization of them. Lecture demonstrations on such topics as air, water, weather, climate, heat, light, and sound illustrate basic principles.

In the Senior year both physics and chemistry are offered. Classes are held five periods per week, including one devoted to laboratory work. Topics considered in physics include machines, heat, electricity, light, and sound.

Chemistry deals with matter and its changes. Fundamental laws and theories of chemistry, metals and non-metals, acids, bases, and salts, certain organic compounds and related mathematical problems are some of the areas considered.

Modern life and professional training requires a good background in science for proper appreciation of progress and invention. In fields such as medicine, dentistry, and engineering, scientific background is a prerequisite. B.L.S. students who hope to enter these vocations get good training.

In addition to formal courses, the annual Boston Science Fair, Massachusetts Science Fair, and similar activities give students great opportunities to develop projects of their own interest and design. The Boston Latin School Science Club is an organization which permits students to discuss, consider, and demonstrate many subjects in which they are particularly interested.

FRENCH

The French Department has always been faced with two problems: the first, that every student in our school is required to take French for three years; the second, that a comparatively small number will choose the elective Senior French course. For the first three years the French teachers strive to give students a sound understanding of basic French, which consists of the grammatical constructions of the language, the useful vocabulary of every-day life, necessary verb work, and the ability to understand spoken French and to use it in ordinary conversation. The required textual reading helps to broaden the student's horizon with regard to the history, geography, and social life of France. In the fourth year of French the student is preparing for the College Board Achievement Test; and, he is gaining, in addition, proficiency in oral work, promoted partly by the use of special phonograph records.

The "Cercle Français," an extracurricular activity — with officers chosen from the fourth-year students, but with many members from the three-year boys — has helped to bring honors to the French Department. Some of our outstanding students have been Presidents of the French clubs of Harvard, Boston College, and Brandeis; and one of our top students won first prize in the New England contest of the American Association of Teachers of French.

THE RESULT OF SELF-EXPRESSION: CULTURE

FINE ARTS

Literature, music, and art are so closely linked that it is almost impossible to separate them. The cultural development of a people is measured by its fine arts.

The Latin School has produced more than its quota of notable men in these fields — such giants as Leonard Bernstein, famed and respected in the world of music as conductor and composer; Bernard Berenson, connoisseur of art and world-famous critic; Howard Lindsay, nationally known playwright.

The background which the Latin School affords has in no small way contributed to the fortunate decisions of these men to choose a career in the fine arts — a career which increases not only the stature of the individual, but contributes to the culture of the community, the nation, and the world.

SENIORS

BERNARD BERENSON, Class of '84

From a meager start, Mr. Berenson has made himself the world's foremost art critic. His books on Italian artists of the Renaissance are the definitive works on the subject. He is a "legend in his own time." Mr. Berenson, now 87 years old, resides at Settignano, Italy, still doing research.

LEONARD BERNSTEIN, Class of 1935

American composer and conductor, Leonard Bernstein scored his great early success in New York when only twenty-six, at the last moment and without rehearsal, he substituted for Bruno Walter and conducted the New York Philharmonic in an outstanding performance. He has written two successful musical comedies, "On the Town," and "Wonderful Town"; and the ballets "Fancy Free" and "Facsimile", in addition to his serious symphonic compositions.

HOWARD LINDSAY, Class of 1907

As of 1950, the Broadway production of "Life With Father" had taken in over $5,000,000 — making it one of the theatre's greatest financial successes of all time. This great achievement was due mostly to the brilliant acting of the playwright, Howard Lindsay, who portrayed the title role of "Father." In collaboration with Mr. Krouse, Mr. Lindsay, of the class of 1907, has also written the highly successful comedy, "Arsenic and Old Lace," recently presented with great acclaim on television, and many other great Broadway hits.

President's Message

Mr. Doyle, members of the faculty, and classmates of '55:

The hour is fast approaching when we shall take leave of B.L.S., and the question of that hour will be, "Where are we going?" Most of us will strive towards that state of perfection that shall render us prepared to meet the manifold duties as men, as citizens, and as loyal Americans. Up to the present time we have been gathering such knowledge as was required of us as boys. Now we must attain the type of knowledge that shall stamp us as men on a collegiate level. We shall ever be grateful for the preparation that we have received here at Latin School, the inspiration to study, to work, and to acquire useful knowledge at the hands of the dedicated teachers of our school. Our school has richly endowed us with an understanding which is only a foretaste for the student days that lie ahead. As we survey the years that have been spent, we cannot close our eyes to the march of time, to the ravages of wars, and to a world filled with turmoil, with intrigue, and without the rules by which men lived and were governed in other generations.

During our entire lifetime there has been no period wherein the world has enjoyed peace. We have constantly been exposed to the rattling of sabres, the roar of guns, the din of battle, and the greatest revolution that man has ever attempted; namely, to conquer space and distance by way of the jet-propelled machines in the science of aviation. We have seen the men of science create Franksteins by means of the splitting of the atom, the atomic bomb, and the hydrogen bomb which threatens to destroy civilization. These men have created instruments of war of which they, themselves, are frightened. And yet, in a more optimistic vein, we may find that out of these inventions may come the greatest benefits to society. We, the new graduates, look with confidence to tomorrow with faith, with hope, and with courage. We look to the leadership of this, our beloved land, and to the heritage that is ours as an inspiration, so that we may continue to strive towards that far greater and nobler goal of "Peace on earth," for us and for the generations still unborn.

Advice to students: "Always strive to do better than mere pass-work. The Latin School training has given you the power; use it!"

Coping with the combined genius of all "the better boys", the masters have earned the right to despair of the coming generation.

The onus of instructing Latin was shared with equal difficulty by both the untiring Mr. Miller and the tiring Mr. Locke. Who of us can ever forget the fruitful family tree of Clytemnestra or the renowned ablative of "specifi — sition?"

It has been rumored that the reason why Mr. "Sky King" Carroll retires into his little cubicle on occasions is that he wants to be alone to remember wistfully the last boy to take the physics board. We hope that, with the departure of this year's "immature children", the good master will be "ear-marked" for success.

In the history course, the class enjoyed the genial, calm, and debonair atmosphere provided by the golden reflection of one of Mr. Pearson's Phi Beta Kappa keys. And as we slither happily from the portals of 208 for the last time, we hear the natives sadly chanting, "Kanagawa, Kanagawa . . ."

For an English teacher we had Mr. Mahan, which (a faulty pronoun, Sir?) speaks for itself.

What could we have done without Mr. Levine? As always, he has worked incessantly for the school and for his class. We deeply appreciate everything that he has done in our behalf.

Feels Latin masters should be created as members of a special school; wouldn't teach in any other school.

Advice to students: "Do it now. Don't postpone any task, however disagreeable."

With no fear of being called braggarts, we freely admit that Room 302 is the most outstanding Senior homeroom ever produced at the Avenue Louis Pasteur Brain Factory. At present we of 302 are being swamped with scholarships and prizes, honoring our scholastic achievements. The higher ranking members of our class plan to attend Heidelberg, while the less intelligent will have to settle for Oxford or perhaps even (ugh!) Harvard. The most capable of our many top-notch athletes is that internationally famous championship bowler, "Mort" Schwartz. Some of our mental giants are already making use of the many talents which they possess. "Big Joe" Barry (the new Gene Krupa) has just finished a recording of "Skin Deep", played on a certain Latin master's head. "Dow" Chambers and "Sugar" Shocker will employ their vocal talents in making the sound effects for the jungle movie, "The Voodoo Calls of 316" or "The Physics Master Seems Restless Tonight!". "Den" Crowley has just finished writing the best-seller, "The Advantages of a Broad Education". "Jake" Riordan is giving muscle-building courses to those who flunk out of the Y.M.C.U. "Dick" Murray is an up-and-coming disc jockey, but the general opinion is that he'll never replace "Rosemary". Our Irish politicians — Tedesco, Memmolo, Sacco, and Pepe — are in Washington, trying to persuade Congress to let East Boston into the "Union".

If we have advanced our extraordinary scholastic abilities at all this year, we owe it to our masters. In these days of moral decadence, we have found inspiration in the fire-and-brimstone sermons of Mr. Boylan: "Repent ye brethren in Sinner's Row and heed not the voice of Him who crieth from the sewer." (He also taught us physics.) The old toreador, Mr. McNamara, managed to give us some of the finer points of English, despite the fact that some of the boys had never been in the "Signal Corps". Teaching us Latin was a two-man job: Mr. Locke took on the "A" division, while Mr. Miller handled the lesser lights. In Mr. Aaron Gordon's American history class, we learned how Davy Crockett managed to kill a "bar" when he was only three. Mr. Dobbyn not only proved himself to be a patient and helpful homeroom teacher, but also prevented several cases of chronic ulcers by employing the molecular theory of expansion when determining our mathematics marks.

Hobbies: Sports — in a purely academic way; literary curiosities.

Advice to students: "Life is far too short and much too complex to give it less than your very best."

Room 303 was ably and well represented in all phases of Senior activity. All plaudits and thanks are due Mr. Dolan for his concerned and varied guidance, which made our year highly rewarding.

Many of the class were exposed to "Young Dan" Shea, who spiced the chemistry course with many anecdotes and sleights of hand. Our "Moe's", "Bo's", "Willies", and "Snowshoes" did gain a good grasp of the subject.

The history session usually became a debate between the "loose constructionists" of the class and our master, Mr. Rosenthal. The tests were unfathomable, and subsequent haranguing was a popular pastime.

A large proportion of the class "dug" Dr. Callanan's English period. We are sure that every one, with the exception of "those in the corner", acquired an all-round perspective of the subject or "got the point".

While trying our skill at physics, with Mr. Boylan guiding us, we found a new way of looking at things by — thinking! Regardless of the uproars often created by some chance remark, such as "When is the Hallowe'en party?", the course was fruitful and interesting.

We found our homeroom teacher, Mr. Dolan, as good a Latin teacher as he was homeroom referee. Beware auri sacra fames, for look at what you are missing while you are making that million. (Mr. Dolan's advice).

Thus, with fond memories of a "crazy" and fabulous year, we go "chasing" to find "something worth good money" in our respective paths.

Sons graduated B.L.S. in 1947 and 1949

And here we are — this year's Senior "corner." With a room full of "well-rounded" and only "right-type" boys, we were active in all teams and organizations. In addition to the many extra-curricular activities we found time to attend classes. As the selected major was chemistry, the class tramped to the room of Mr. Thompson (one of the famous three — ask him) with prospects of a special laboratory period always in mind. Instruction in English was adequately provided by Mr. Irons, who was overjoyed when the "Visitor" appeared. Mr. Pearson (commonly called "Muzz") repeatedly showed us the significance of source material and also . . . Why isn't that history book covered, Dubin? In "Hoppy's" room we were treated to the second installment of "Virgil" or, as it is known to many, "McKay's Interlinear." Unfortunately we took a wrong turn on the Tiber and landed, of all places, at Hernando's Hideaway, where "Sid" was doing the mambo. Last but by no means least, were the many interesting discussions with Mr. Shea concerning rudimentary physics.

When this year of graduation is long past, will any of us forget "Muzz's" history quizzes; "Hoppy's Horrornym Sheets"; the "Moes" and the "Mutts"; and the life and love of "Pater Aeneas." In all sincerity, we of 304 wish to express gratitude and admiration to all our masters, who have instructed and guided us throughout the past year. A special note of thanks is deserved by Mr. Irons, our homeroom master, who was understanding when problems arose and generous with his time and patience.

Dean of Class IV

Advice to students: "Work as if you were going to live forever; live as if you were going to die today."

As always, Room 307 stands out as an exceptional home-room. As the prizes that we have attained are too numerous to mention, we will devote this space to expressing our sincere gratitude to Mr. Sheehan and hope that he may have many more happy years in the hallowed halls of B.L.S. while thinking up "easy questions." Thanks are also due to Mr. Paul Boylan, whose three weeks' leave was an excuse to determine what mark to give a boy whose average was -3; to Mr. Carroll, the only master who can boast of a charcoal grey Magdeburg Hemisphere (très chic); to Mr. Murphy, who owns the only "Muzzey" whose pages are printed on grey matter; and, last but not least, to Mr. O'Callahan, with the hope that next year will find him with a revolving door and an "unconfused boy."

We, the "betterer" boys, will recall with delight "The Cane Gang", "Ye Olde Abbott Farm", "The Nobby News", "Seat Numbers", "MCMIX", "Verisimilitude", "Status Quo" (same), "The Voice of the Sewer", and "Zeroes for Being Absent."

Of course, little does the Senior class know that their class dues were used to finance a little cruise to Bermuda over the Christmas vacation. (Wondered why the dues had to be in before Christmas; eh, wot?) This trip was taken by Ye Olde Treasurer, only one of the notorious clan of 307. We feel we are duty-bound to mention that we own the better half of the basketball team, the Register, the hockey team, and the yearbook. These achievements are due to the splendid school spirit of 307. Proud of our home-room, we have always kept it spic and span under the supervision of our able squad-leader in Row One, who picks up the pear wrappings.

As we bid a fond adieu to 307, only one question still puzzles us: — How did those footprints really get on 209's ceiling?

Advice to students: "Take advantage of all the wonderful opportunities that are offered by Latin School."

Later on in life, when ruminating over our "best years," few of us will fail to remember our masters' enduring words of wisdom. Even when Mr. Shea banged the Zn with H_2SO_4 and said, "That's good stuff, Moe!" it was possible to detect his paternal interest in us. The day Mr. Carroll finished the "Heat Sheet" and began to explain how to "smitch," we learned that there must be an "easier way." At any rate, we know what a "poosh" and a "pull" are. Mr. Godfrey, in addition to teaching us much history, gave us many ideas to think over. Unfortunately, we never could consider them in class because we were always opening books, closing books, standing up, sitting down, or "being serious." Although Mr. Mark Russo insisted upon our keeping an "effishent" notebook, he constantly reminded us that the information (e.g., Shakespeare's notes) should be "non in port-folio, sed in capito." He certainly afforded us "books" with an ed-u-ca-tion. Captain Edward (Combat) Kelley's attempt to convert the auditorium into an arsenal failed, but he did show us "how it was done."

Least of all, are we likely to forget our esteemed homeroom master, Mr. Maurice Downey, and his assistant, Mr. Walter Casey. For their hard work and individual attention, we convey our ineffable thanks and carry with us an enduring memory.

Advice to students: "Work hard to get the benefits of a classical education."

In future years it may well be said of the boys of 333 that "those who knew them spoke highly of them." Gentlemen and scholars all, we were a constant source of delight to our lords and masters. (If you don't believe it, just ask them.)

Mr. "Bill" Bergen knows that as students of history, we occasionally needed a little prodding, but we absorbed most of the instruction given by the tall Herodotus of 204. The only regret of that exponent of stylish neckwear, Mr. A. M. Greenhalge, is that so few of the 333 mathematical savants are going into technical fields. Surely this is ample proof of the high regard our teachers had for us.

Our favorite English teacher, the erudite, Dr. McCarthy, gave us some lively times and some high marks, which were just a bit higher than our other grades. Oh, well; we can't get all "A's" all the time.

The trouble-shooter of 319 really didn't mean what he said about those "flannel-mouths, fakers, hams," etc. Unless something untoward happens, we expect Mr. Shea (with the help of Bernie, Frank and Walter) to win the Nobel prize for proving conclusively that "the Rhone river is no brook, kiddo."

The last of the old Romans, and our homeroom master, Mr. Cleary, in addition to imbuing us with an appreciation of classical Latin, gave us a short course in etymology which he made sure did not go beyond our ken.

As we, the BEST boys (not to be confused in any way with the inferior better boys) bid farewell to Alma Mater and enter into a new and unknown world, we bear uppermost in our minds the practical advice of Mr. Shea: "Keep your left hand high and your chin tucked in."

The "pewpills" of Room 334 will never win beauty contests; no more than three or four will ever win a Nobel or Pulitzer Prize; few, if any, will be on future All-American or Olympic Teams; yet each one is endowed with certain intangible qualities which make 334 the shining light of the Class of '55. The room was well represented in the major organizations of the school, boasting members of the football, basketball, hockey, and track teams; the Key Club and the NHS; and the Outing Club.

For its instruction in history, 334 is grateful to Mr. Nemzoff, whose ready wit made his classes all the more enjoyable. Better yet were the informative sheets which accompanied each fascinating chapter of "Muzzey."

To Mr. Carroll goes a vote of thanks from all boys who took the Physics College Board. What with the heat sheet, the work sheet, and magnetism sheet, and other sheets in the wind, it was a breeze.

From chemistry classes we shall not forget Mr. Shea's advice to Harry Wieman: "You must be a smoked shoulder; a ham can be cured." With the practice we had in "killing" barium chloride, we had no trouble with the rascals of examiners.

Of English Class we remember secretary's reports; "Shelby" Lyman's treatise on the integration of false ideologies; and the contributions of George Dubin, the poet-laureate of 334. Mr. Marson will remember us as the most nearly literate senior class he has had this year.

Homeroom periods were not without their chuckles. "Vinnie" Jackmaugh, our genial homeroom co-master of ceremonies, is to be commended for retaining a small measure of his sanity throughout the year.

Advice to students: "Success can be gained only by hard work."

I. Now it came to pass that the good King Hopkinson was buried beneath a deluge of Latin sheets and the evil Jerome the First ruled over the domain of 335.

II. As time passed, the tyrant oppressed the children of 335 with many misdemeanor marks, until, at last, their burden became too great.

III. Then there arose among them a prophet who called himself Cogan. He spoke to the Seniors thus:

IV. "Come, oh, oppressed ones to my Chevrolet; and I will deliver you from the hand of tyranny to the promised land. For it is said in the Book of Schiller that the land of 311 is a paradise.

V. And so they left 335 and travelled to 311. But lo, a giant called Van did dwell in this land and he ruled with a set of keys. And he did oppress the 335ers with many vocabulary words and flyers. Finally, he banished them to the Niederland.

VI. For forty weeks the children of 335 wandered over the land. In their travels, some of the right-type fellows led by Davis, Nordahl, Anderson, and Baden settled in the kingdom of the good Gordie, to rest forever more.

VII. Now it came to pass that a messenger rode down from the north and spoke to the 335ers, who were resting on their way: "I bear greetings from the Muzz. He has offered to accept into his realm all who will be converted to the Republican Party." Some went away with the rider to live a life of source-material and Faulkner books; but others, led by Savitz and Schwartz, remained true to the Democrats.

IX. Soon after they had crossed into the land of 316, the exiled Seniors were afflicted with the dreaded disease — physics. The wise King Tall Paul gave them consolation in these words: "Boys, it's the theories that count. I mean, it's the problems."

X. And so they left the wise King in a green test-tube and continued on their journey.

XI. Then, behold, the deliverer came. He spoke unto the assembled and told them of the great institutions of learning that were in the vicinity.

XII. And so, the children of 335 left the domain known as Latin Land and settled in various places known as colleges.

RASHI'S EXPLANATION

About the children of Room 335, this chapter has been written. Truly, in the history of the world, it is doubtful if such a group has ever again been assembled under one roof.

Die beste Knaben, as they have often been called, are among the most intelligent, handsomest, most modest pupils in Latin School.

They can boast of being above the "better boys" and all other senior homerooms.

SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING

Only recently has science become so important that more and more of our graduates enter technical schools. Medicine, aeronautics, and nuclear studies have become increasingly popular. Pure science and research lure many Seniors to M.I.T. and other great institutions equipped with laboratories and other essential facilities for advanced studies.

Paving the way for modern scientists and engineers over one hundred years ago, the Latin School had among its students Charles Bulfinch, architect for the State House on Beacon Hill and the U. S. Capitol in Washington; Benjamin A. Gould, famed astronomer; and Samuel Pierpont Langley, physicist and pioneer in aviation. Despite its allegedly "outmoded" classical curriculum, the Latin School has been preparing chemists, physicists, architects, and other scientists steadily throughout its three centuries.

With the advances being made in all branches of science, greater and greater numbers of skilled men are needed. It is pleasing to note that the graduates of the Latin School are ready to take their places and make their contributions in the world of the present and the future.

ACTIVITIES

CHARLES BULFINCH, Class of 1776

A Harvard graduate, Bulfinch became the most famous architect of his time by careful study abroad in preparation for his profession. His chief works are the State House at Boston and the west porticoes of the Capitol at Washington. He contributed much toward elevating the stature of the American architect, both here and abroad.

SAMUEL PIERPONT LANGLEY, Class of 1851

Astronomer and physicist, Samuel P. Langley conducted valuable research in the dynamics of air and developed the principles upon which successful airplanes were later constructed. Just as he appeared on the verge of success, he abandoned his experiments because of ridicule, criticism, and lack of support. The fundamental principles he used in the construction of his airplane are now accepted without reservation by aeronautical engineers.

DR. NATHANIEL HERMAN FRANK, Class of 1919

Dr. Nathaniel H. Frank, Head of the Department of Physics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is well known for his work in the fields of theoretical physics and metallic conduction.

Dr. Frank received his doctor of science degree from M.I.T. in 1927. He has served as head of the department since 1952. His work at the Radiation Laboratory at M.I.T. during World War II, comprising theoretical research of phenomena associated with the propagation of microwaves, did much to aid the war effort. Dr. Frank is a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the American Physical Society.

Class Day

At the noon hour on Friday, April 15, the halls of Latin School resounded with the banter of some three hundred Seniors, teeming with anticipation. The long-awaited hour had arrived: it was Class Day.

After the students and guests had been seated, the Headmaster, Mr. John J. Doyle, presented the Class President, David Stanley Rosenthal, who assumed the position of master of ceremonies and delivered his address. The prize-winning class oration followed, a noble composition, written and declaimed by John Francis Dobbyn.

The transition to the Class Prophecy was interesting. A trio — consisting of Gerald Gordon, Leonard Katz, and Daniel Troderman — took its place upon the stage and promptly enthralled the “jazzy” element in the audience. Thunderous applause necessitated no fewer than two encores; and then the night-club effect had to end, giving way to the paper eagerly anticipated by all — the Class Prophecy.

Behold, upon the stage of the Latin School auditorium wandered four Seniors — Coran, Leven, Liss, and Patz — strangely clad in suit-jackets and Bermuda shorts! These four gentlemen caused wild fits of laughter by their remote allusions to certain members of the class. Whatever the cause, it is certain that everyone was delightfully amused.

An excellent playing of a Chopin Etude by Steven Aaron Davis preceded the reading of the Class Will. Inscribed upon a long scroll (said to be made of B.L.S. diplomas) was this sacred document. It was read by a noble triumvirate of "better" boys — Bresnick, Klass, and Krause.

Next we were honored to have as guest speaker Dr. David E. Kopans, President of the Class of 1930. His enlightening address was well received by students and faculty.

As the traditional close for Class Day the entire senior class rendered the Class Song, written by Paul Arnold Epstein and Bernard Geller. The song gave a sentimental ending to the "big day."

Thanks are due Mr. Houlihan and the Boston Latin School Band, who provide several musical interludes during the program. The Class had a very enjoyable day — one to be remembered for a long time to come.

Career Day

Once again the Career Day exercises were spread over four days in order to allow a more intensified study of each subject. A question period at the end of each pair of speeches gave students a chance to inquire more minutely into the nature of the presented vocation.

On Tuesday, March 29, William G. O'Hare, '07, Executive Secretary of the Overseers of Public Welfare, spoke on social service as a career. Mr. O'Hare stressed the need for social workers at the present time.

At the second assembly, on the next day, Rev. Edwin T. Anthony, '30, Minister of the Church of the Pilgrimage in Plymouth, discussed the qualifications and duties of the clergy. He was followed by Austin F. Lyne, '44, of the First National Stores. In discussing a career in food distribution, Mr. Lyne pointed out the stability of his field and the many opportunities for advancement.

On Thursday, Edward F. McLaughlin, Jr., '38, of the Boston City Council, spoke on public service as a career. He stressed the need for greater public interest in the qualification of men in public office. Earl C. Tyler, '28, Vice-President of the National Shawmut Bank, then discussed the opportunities in banking.

The final assembly on Friday began with a talk by Dr. Paul M. Zoll, '28, of the Beth Israel Hospital. Dr. Zoll, noted for his research on heart ailments, spoke on various aspects of his profession. He stressed a need for competent men to do research. The exercises closed with a speech by Howard L. Richard, '31, who brought out the fact that to succeed as an insurance man, one must have the personal drive to work without supervision. On the whole, Career Day was a huge success. It provided an excellent opportunity to consider vocational opportunities open to high school graduates.

Class Banquet

The annual Senior Class Banquet was held May 11, at the Hotel Bradford. The class of 1955 had as its honored guest, Headmaster John Doyle.

After a sumptuous repast, the many Seniors present sat back to enjoy coffee and the traditional cigars, which took their customary toll. The entertainment was provided by our genial and witty toastmaster, Mr. Dunn, ably assisted by the guest speakers of the evening. After the banquet had come to a close, the members of the class scattered in various directions, trading fond farewells.

The credit for planning and managing the Banquet goes to Chairman Watkins and his able Committee, who were given expert advice by Mr. Dunn. Many thanks and congratulations to both!

Victory Dance

Although the big game was called off because of inclement weather, the Victory Dance went on as scheduled, with one small alteration: the addition of the word "Pre" before Victory. You see, the football team had to wait for two days after Turkey Day to justify the merriment that took place the night of the dance in anticipation of winning. It was a gala affair, aided by the appearance of the most beautiful girls this side of Dorchester. The lights were low and George Graham was playing a slow romantic number, when suddenly a dull, monotonous voice began to intone signals: "All right, fellas; we know you want to win Saturday, but do you have to practice your plays here?" As a climax to a most enjoyable evening, our team literally pulverized English to win the coveted City Title and thus justified the Committee in their choice of a name for the dance.

First Row: Liss, Watson, Campanis, Brandli, Curley. Second Row: Thomson, Leeco, Parks, Leven, Dixon, Peters, Troiano.

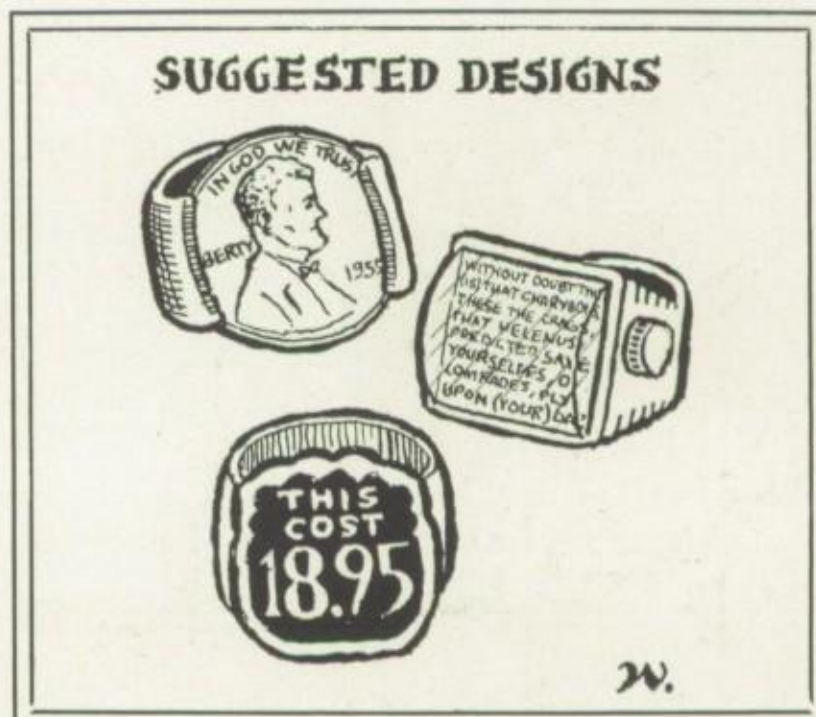

Ring Committee

Just as the appearance of the first crocus designates the arrival of spring, so does the meeting of the Ring Committee foreshadow the ominous perils of Class I. As is the case each year, one representative of each of the Class II rooms meets in the Library to discuss the choice of a single style.

The representative from the Scholastic jewelers aided the aspirants by presenting ring styles and weights. Each young man then hastened back to his room with all the information he had amassed during the half-hour meeting. Along with the news of the ring styles, the Class II men were also informed that a five-dollar deposit would be happily accepted and would guarantee delivery of the ring in September, 1954.

After the necessary information had been absorbed, Mr. Dunn's library soon became the scene of a tumultuous "cagarre" (as the French say). The struggle for finger-measurement was, however, successfully completed, with the result that the Class of 1955 has at least one bit of tangible evidence that it has endured six years of Latin School training.

Mid-Winter Prom

Tuesday, February 22, was a banner day on the Boston Latin School calendar; for not only did our potent hockey team overcome arch-rival English in a hard-fought game, but the Midwinter Prom — under the able co-chairmanship of Barry Russman and Gene McLaughlin — took place with equal success. This “excuse for not studying for the Boards” was held at the Hotel Bradford with all the “Boys” and their dates turning out in droves to dance to the music of George Graham. If the lights hadn’t been so low, several of the “better boys” would have made good use of SAT Sheet Ds, LXXXIV which they had brought along to insure a profitable and enjoyable evening. All in all, every one had a good time, including the Howard Johnson’s at Forest Hills, which did a booming business after midnight.

First Row: Lt. Col. Dobbyn, Col. Cohen, Brig. Gen. Marshall, Col. Vasquez, Lt. Col. Collins. Second Row: Maj. Hymans, Maj. Watkins, Maj. Kizner, Maj. Nordahl, Maj. Tedesco, Maj. Curley.

Prize Drill

Starting promptly at 8:35 on Wednesday, April 27, 1955, the Boston Latin School, despite the chilly and threatening weather, held its ninety-first annual Prize Drill. The impressive ceremonies were held in the yard.

Of the twenty-one cadet companies which participated, the following were adjudged the winners in the First Regiment: (1) 8th Company, Colonel Alphonse Vasquez; (2) 6th Company, Lieutenant-Colonel Richard Collins; (3) 5th Company, Major Peter Nordahl; (4) 3rd Company, Major Robert Watkins; and (5) 7th Company, Major Arthur Curley.

In the Second Regiment the winners were (1) 6th Company, Colonel Louis Cohen; (2) 8th Company, Lieutenant-Colonel John Dobbyn; (3) 10th Company, Major Saul Hymans; (4) 2nd Company, Major William Tedesco; and (5) 4th Company, Major Melvin Kizner. Richard Marshall, whose 12th Company in the Second Regiment amassed the greatest number of points in either regiment, was promoted to the rank of Brigadier-General. As such, he will have the privilege of leading the Latin School contingent in the Schoolboy Parade.

Twenty-one individual citations were awarded to those cadets judged most skillful in the Individual Manual of Arms Competition.

The remarkable precision of Latin School's Trick Drill Team, commanded by Louis Johnson, was one of the many highlights of an outstanding program. A musical interlude was provided by the Senior Band, led by Captains Gerald Gordon, Ronald Stone, Thomas Eccles, and Paul Epstein. Their spirited playing was accompanied by precise marching maneuvers. The Drum and Bugle Corps — commanded by Captains Arthur Collias, Richard Hanlon, Bernard Geller, and Walter Faggett — also contributed their share to the day's activities. Individual awards were given for excellence in musical work.

The day will long be remembered by all who participated — especially the Senior officers. The anxiety of waiting to march into the "ring", the scrutiny of the judges, the colorful review, will all be recalled.

One participant who deserved but failed to get an award was the Boston Fire Department. We thank them for their generous contribution of a sound truck with which to conduct the exercises. Most of all, however, we extend our heartiest congratulations to Captain Edward J. Kelley, whose tireless efforts and sparkling leadership assured success.

First Row: Cerul, Geller, Mr. Sullivan, Herman, Shoolman. Second Row: Pauley, Ginsburg, Macdonald, Friary, Meonick, Spiel. Third Row: McGrath, Russok Pauley, Korb, Kozodoy.

Prize Declamation

The annual Prize Declamation assembly was held this year on May 24. After boys of Classes I, II, III, and IV and the prize-winners of Classes V and VI had entered the Hall, Mr. Doyle opened the ceremonies by reading from his "trot" to translate the first page of the program — written, as always, in Latin.

After the Fidicines Tubicines, four nervous declaimers bravely ascended the stage in this order: David Book Pauley, Class VI, gave "I Am an American;" Kevin Michael McGrath, Class VI, "War Inevitable;" Neal Kozodoy, Class V, "The Yarn of the Nancy-Bell;" and Henry Morton Shoolman, Class V, gave "What Is a Boy?"

The Orchestra played a beautiful selection by LeRoy Anderson, after which four more declaimers, avidi laudis, proceeded: Ian Cameron MacDonald, Donald Richard Friary of Class IV; David Edward Kozodoy and Mark Jay Mirsky of Class III, who gave respectively, "Evangeline," "Man with a Hoe," "Gunga Din," and "Death of a Salesman."

Once again the Orchestra calmed the anxious declaimers; and the following four speakers concluded the program: David Sumner Spiel and Edward Haven Pauley, Class II, with "Little Napoleon" and "Hamlet;" Seymour Lazarre Simckes and John Francis Dobbyn, Class I, with, "A Piece of String" and "Melpominos Jones."

Paul Cutter of Class I entertained the audience with a piano selection, and the Orchestra played the traditional Harvard Hymn. Mr. Hopkinson translated the tributes to the Judges, alumni of the Class of 1905 and 1930.

Then came the long-awaited moment, the announcement of the prize-winners. After the Modern, Classical, Fidelity, and Approbation prizes had been announced, Mr. Christopher FitzGerald, frater of our own Mr. Charles FitzGerald, ascended the stage as head declamation judge. He announced the winners. The Special Prize for Classes V and VI was won by Neal Kozodoy; for III and IV, by Donald Friary; and the Special Prize for Classes I and II, by David Spiel. The remaining contestants held their breath as he concluded: Third Prize, Edward Pauley; Second Prize, Mark Mirsky; and First Prize, John Francis Dobbyn.

Farewell Prom

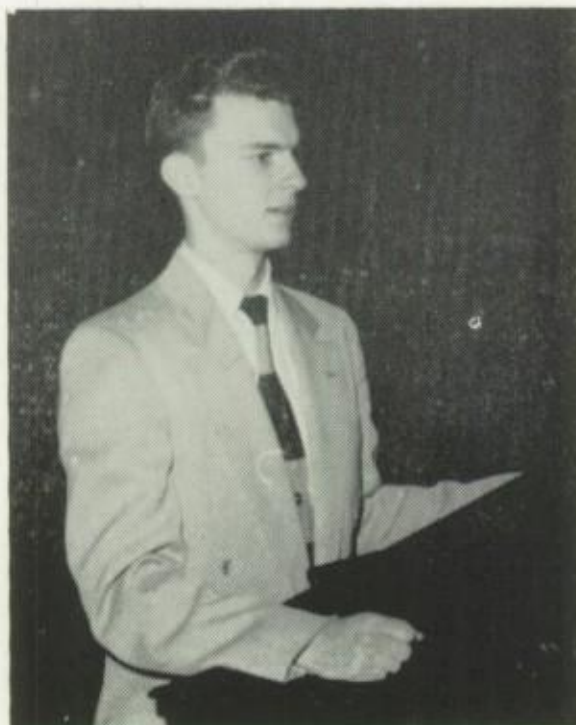

After lengthy deliberation and search throughout Greater Boston, the Senior Prom Committee decided to hold the Farewell Prom in the Empire Room of the Hotel Bradford. Consequently, on June third, the class and their fair escorts turned out in best bib and tucker. From eight to twelve, the velvet strings of Freddy Guerra's band served to inspire continuous dancing. Then the couples dispersed to favorite spots to conclude a memorable night. For the outstanding success of the party, the class offers to Chairman Rosenthal and the Committee its heartiest congratulations and gratitude.

CLASS ORATION 1955

by

JOHN FRANCIS DOBBYN

Mr. President, Mr. Doyle, Honored Guests, Members of the Faculty, and Fellow Classmates:

There was a day, some four or six years ago, that I imagine has been called to the mind of every one of us here today. I am recalling that vivid morning in September when each of us entered this hallowed hall for the first time, somewhat uncertain about the future, determined to meet all obstacles, certainly impressed by the inspiring grandeur of this hall, perhaps even a little bit "scared." No doubt you can recall with me those traditional first words that set our course for us. "Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom, and with all thy getting, get understanding." Now we are about to graduate. Obviously through these long years, we did get the wisdom. However, it seems to me that we have never felt the fullness of understanding until now, when we can see and feel the satisfaction of all the labors, the successes, the failures, the excitement, the heartaches, and the results of the years we have spent here in this tradition-filled Latin School. Understanding? Who among us didn't unconsciously accept the philosophy that the only reason we studied the words of Cicero was that there was to be a test on it that week? I am sure that, thinking back, you will agree that we didn't always know what it was all about. But now, leaving the protection and guidance of high school, as we begin to feel the need of time-proved ideals and principles, we see that in the lives of some of the great men we met in history, Latin, Greek, etc., there are examples we should do well to follow even today. Perhaps back on that first day this is what was meant by "Understanding."

Nevertheless, whatever our motives or opinions may have been at that time, our presence here today would seem to indicate that our teachers and instructors saw some degree of success in forcing upon us the priceless gift with which we shall leave our Alma Mater. Whether we leave for college, for employment, or for the military, I'm sure you will agree that the next step is a long one and a hard one, and none of us is too certain of what awaits us at our next destination. However, we have a defense to match against any high school graduate in the world. We have learned the hard, bitter lesson of self-discipline. We have fought hard to acquire the ability to apply ourselves without indecision to a straight course of learning, working, or fighting in the presence of tempting distractions. We shall realize more fully the value of this defense in later years as we notice the vulnerability of others without it.

During our short stay here at Latin School, we have been taught many lessons which brought only happiness while we learned them — happiness that will remain indelibly in our memories long after all the minor unpleasant features will have been forgotten. I can think immediately, as no doubt each one of us can, of one in particular of the many pleasant experiences that we have met here. We can all think back with no regret to the innumerable, priceless lessons in friendship and understanding we have been privileged to find in one another. Perhaps this phase of our Latin School careers will be the one we shall most regret leaving as we feel the warmth of this comradeship for the last time when we assemble on Graduation Night. If we must leave the friends we have known and worked beside through these years, at least we take with us a far greater understanding of the things a real friendship can mean than we had back on that September morning a few years ago.

As for the future, we face a situation vastly different from that which previous classes have embarked upon, and which will probably be vastly modified before future classes reach the graduation platform. Fortunately, the world is turning toward us a more serene countenance than previous years. We hope that the possibility of full-scale war will become more remote. However, the extent of our capability of destruction increases with each rapid step of human ingenuity. With each advancement, the thought of the misuse of these developments entails the well-founded fear of greater casualties. In such an increasingly explosive environment the necessity is obvious that we who shall some day be at the helm must be men of the highest possible education; of the greatest capacity for responsibility; and, most important of all, men of the highest, firmest, most God-fearing principles.

Suppose now we turn our attention to those who have done so much and made so many sacrifices for our happiness. It is undoubtedly to our parents that we owe the greatest expression of our thankfulness. They have lived through our Latin School careers with more concern for our success than at times we ourselves have had. We couldn't have done what we have without them.

I think perhaps it is time also that we stopped for a moment to recognize and express our well-deserved, humble gratitude to a group of men who saw this inevitable course of circumstances years ago and have fought hard, sometimes against our wishes, to prepare us as they have for the day when we are to go out on our own. Today we can simply convey the gratefulness we feel in sincere words — to Mr. Doyle, Mr. McKim, and to all the Masters we have been privileged to know during our stay at Latin School. In the years to come, however, we shall be given the opportunity by our actions to afford these men the priceless satisfaction of knowing that they were successful in molding those small, childish sixth-classmen into young men with the moral and intellectual ability to go out into a restless, discouraged, confused world and live a life they can review with pride before their contemporaries, their posterity, and their God.

CLASS PROPHECY

(The soothing strains of the "Rock Around the Clock" issue forth from behind the curtains.)

Leven: Sorry, folks, but I had to cut the record short. Time's run out. This is your boy Sid saying good-bye from the Jazz corner of Boston, at the corner of Mass. Ave. and Columbus. Don't forget next week, Monday through Friday, the Hi-Hat will feature Pete Nordahl and the four Penguins: Salett, Potenza, Fagett, and Uni. I dig you the most! B-L-S

Liss: This is WBLS in Boston. Stay tuned for the news.

(The curtains open. Four characters, dressed in Bermuda shorts, knee socks, and other sartorial oddities saunter on to the stage.)

Patz: Good afternoon, Ladies and Gentlemen. Once again the makers of Baden Sedatives (for that quiet reserved feeling) bring you Gabriel Hartnett with tomorrow's news today. And now for the news.

(Morse Code)

Coran: Washington. Senator Joseph R. Drucker has subpoenaed Milt Botbol to appear before his committee investigating un-American activities. John Grant, representing the National Hockey League, will defend Botbol, who is charged with illegally importing a Canadian Club to the U. S.

Leven: Again Washington: Olveta Culp Cerul has appointed Dr. F. Aloysius Casey and Prof. G. Stanislaus Dubin to head the National Education Bureau. Prominent political analyst Walter Wenocur commenting on the appointment said, "Siz a zoch und weh." (Which in French means, "Things are looking poorly".)

And now a message from our alternate week sponsor.

Patz: This is Ma Cogan reminding you, "See Mour at my used helicopter store. Today — used 1975 Selutas and Corvis — only $.79 plus tax. And remember, hot coffee and knishes are always waiting."

Refrain: There's no place like Cogan's, there's no place like Cogan's.

Liss: New Hampshire. After returning from a vacation in Florida, John Bennett was appointed head basketball coach at Dartmouth. The appointment came about because of his thesis: "The Art of Making a Pass."

Coran: Mattapan. The Bello Brothers, notorious Boston fruit merchants, are under investigation by Boston Food Inspectors, the Sveikauskae.

Patz: Dorchester. The Real Estate office of Chaletsky, Crowley, Curley, Connolly, and Zilinskas has acquired extensive property in down-town Boston. Plans to raze present buildings are being opposed by Senators Tom Joseph and Jazz Kirk, long-time advocates of vaudeville shows in Boston.

Leven: New York. Items along Broadway. Glenn Herman and his orchestra, featuring crooner Josh Shapiro will open next week at Ciro's. Across town at the Lubitz Quarter, Mel Kizner has been hired as head bouncer. He's always been good at throwing it. Broadway critic Frank Krause reviewed favorably the Cutter-Davis musical, "Me and My Piano," starring Lenny Katz.

Liss: Flash! Chief of Police Paul Altmeyer, a rather stubby chap, is on his way to the Sobol Building to save Mike Sabia. Latest reports have him on the thirty-first floor. Now back to the news.

Coran: San Francisco. U. N. Representatives Chin, Orlandi, O'Connor, and Seigel have signed a pact condemning recent aggression by Perlow and his Chelsea gang against the G & G, landmark for hungry Americans. It seems that he wants to corner the baloney market. Upon the mention of baloney, Representative Alan Rubin said: "Let me speak!" On the World Scene:

Leven: Africa. When interviewed in the jungle about his mining activities, Ubangi Mine Company Chief Bob Grossman said, "I like it here . . . ay . . . ay . . . ay . . . ay."

Patz: London. Sir Frederick de Perera, Prime Minister of England, hired Nathaniel Hawthorne Leff in a desperate attempt to alleviate the smog problem. Said Leff, "If I can't do it, no one can." (At this point the papers on the table were agitated by a violent draft.)

Liss: Paris. The Hamelburg-Richman Construction Company has just been contracted to build the Eifel Tower, burned recently by arsonist Sparks Meehan. Upon apprehending this notorious firebug, Chief Gendarme Kushnir said, "Were it not for sze queek szinking of my petit-gendarme Dowgiallo, we could nevair haf brocht heem to joostice."

Patz: Berlin. Heinrich Saef, Master of Ceremonies at the Berlin Beer Festival (BURP) had the honor of presenting the coveted Savitz-Huckster Prize to Bob Anderson. This prize is awarded for aggressiveness and get-up-and-go.

Coran: Bagdad. Yosbal Schwartz, Sultan of all Ottomans, has decreed that henceforth all Bazzini Nuts in five-star packages must be registered with Hajji Haddadd's Inspection Board.

Jerusalem. President Mike Israel has hired successful smog-dispeller, N. H. Leff, to mediate peace between the belligerents there. Two delegates, Shiek Lahaggi Baba and Hayim McLaughlin have been named to attend. And now a word from our alternate-alternate week sponsor.

Leven: Friends, did you know that now, all Needle-Russman mattresses bear the Kirslis seal of approval? And as an added feature, they are stuffed with only pure, Sadly Alvin whiskers. So remember, you can be sure if it's Needle-Russman. Bullets are made of lead, don't get lead in your head, buy a certified bed, remember what we said, Needle-Russman mattresses for your bedstead. Buy one today!

Liss: Flash! Our reporter on the spot, Glenn Peters has seen Sabia on the roof. We sure hope Altmeyer reaches him on time.

More news: Leading women's fashionist Hy Cooper has revealed a return to the flat look, so prominent in 1954. Clifford Dunham will present the new fashions at Brooks Brothers store. The consulting firm of Brandli and Markovitz, Hank and Hank, will import the material.

Patz: New York. Madison Square Garden. Mendell Hurwitz, New York Times Sports Editor, has just picked Schulte Dikmak, track star and record winner of the 440 race as athlete of the year 1975. Running a close second was Steve Klass, with Marshall Starr only a lap behind.

Coran: Washington. The White House. President Ike Rosenthal has pardoned Bob Watkins, former Secretary of the Treasury, convicted of embezzlement, despite Judge Richman's stern sentence. The evidence was too circumstantial and lacked good source material. Yes . . . !

Liss: Fire Commissioner Bresnick has placed safety nets around the Sobol Building in an attempt to save Sabia. Stay tuned to this station for further developments.

And now a message of interest to you all.

Chorus: Just the other day, I heard a fellow say, "Drink Memmello Wine, because Memmello's fine."

Leven: Remember, only Memmello Wine is pure enough for sacrificial purposes and is endorsed by Alcoholic's Anonymous.

Liss: Hollywood. J. Arthur Stacks Films have hired Gregory Rubenstein to star in their forthcoming spectacular, "Leeco and the Elephants." Greg, this year's winner of the Bessie, will be helped by Gunga Hanson. On the Metro-Gootman-Maio lot, director Darrell Z. Gould has cast Burleigh Grimes . . . into Hollywood Bay. They couldn't find a part for him.

Patz: Fleeson Kenney, mad-hatter of this burg, has been bought out by Jim Grier. His motto: "A hat on every head." At Hollywood Arena, Frank Saponaro was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for his book, "All Saps Are not in Trees."

Coran: Society. George Winthrop Pickering was ejected last night from the Bostonian Club on grounds of misrepresentation. R. Whelton Murphy, renowned Beacon Hill debater, charged that Pickering's ancestors had come over on a Belgian banana boat, the S. S. "Yerkes," rather than the "Mayflower."

Leven: Also prominent on the hill are Robert Scott and Bradford Zolot. They are planning a strong Roxbury-Dorchester coalition in an attempt to establish the capital in the independent municipality of Mattapan.

In a violent storm at Marblehead yesterday,

Victory Sinkus' ship sank. Also, Andrew Nutlay lost many prize apples.

Patz: Ierardi, Arcieri, Franchi, Pepe, and Schwartz's pictures may now be seen on all cans of L'il Ol' American Spaghetti.

Now as a public service announcement, through the courtesy of Admiral Lenny Sacon and Navy Drum Major Gerry Gordon,

Chorus:

Say, young fellow, Navy has news for you;
If you find that you have no diploma,
Get into the Navy blue.

Liss: Flash! The final report has reached us on the Sabia affair. We now switch to our reporter in the field. Come in George Gobel.

Leven: And here we are!

Coran: And there he is!

Liss: Wheeeeeeeeeeeeeee!

Patz: And there he goes!

Liss: Orville Sabia has completed the first successful flight with a new gas-propelled device!

Leven: This concludes our broadcast of world news. We leave you this thought.

Get wisdom!

Patz: Get understanding!

Coran: And in all your getting . . . get . . .

Liss: Baden's Sedatives!

(Exeunt Laughing)

CURTAIN

CLASS WILL

In this, the Era of Good Feeling, we, the Class of '55, after having been duly harassed and oppressed, do, with the shattered remnants of a sound mind and healthy body, herewith declare our last Will and Testament:

To Alma Mater, we bestow our humble gratitude for the most kindly and patient guidance through our past formative and formidable decade.

To Mr. Doyle go our heartiest congratulations for a splendid beginning.

To Mr. Dunn we leave an empty bottle of ink and 300 new grey hairs.

To our beloved Mr. Levine we leave the Old School Tie.

It is no accident that we leave Mr. Pearson with 24 glorious years of Republican rule, one bloody shirt to wave, and a very, very high tariff.

To Mr. Irons we bequeath a right-type copy of the Reader's Digest.

To Mr. Carroll goes that renowned maxim: "One joule is worth ten million ergs."

To Mr. Marson we leave the unsolicited testimonials of four contented aardvarks, as reported in "Living Tissue", the magazine with sniff-appeal.

To Captain Kelley we present an autographed copy of his own memoirs, "Battle Cry."

To Mr. Gilbert, we leave a choice of three Sullivans.

To Mr. Locke, we leave a collapsible hammock.

To Mr. Miller we present two tickets to "Little Caesar."

To the Physical Education Department: "Simplified Rules of Bombardment," with a definitive bibliography by F. Bresnick.

To Class VI: A Robinson Crusoe "trot."

To Class V: A pair of purple sneakers.

To Class IV: "The Fables of LaFontaine", including "The Fable of the Green Horse Smoking the Black Cigar."

To Class III: A copy of Dante's "Inferno" to get a glimpse of Purgatory.

To Class II: A happy and prosperous New Year. You'll need the money.

We leave Baden screeching, "Let a Smile Be Your Umbrella."

Leff leaves sadly with a few choice shavings from Mr. Pearson's Phi Beta Kappa key.

Eccles embarks with a one-way ticket to "Cha-Cha" King's Mountain.

Katz leaves with his autobiography, "God is My Co-Pilot."

DePerera, having drained the cup of Latin School education, leaves with a 3,000-drachma scholarship to Cairo A.&M.

We leave Cooper looking up and Kushnir "Looking Backward."

From the murky depths of the supply room emerges Chin, seeing daylight for the first time in six years.

Hymans leaves Latin School as a stepping-stone to the Presidency.

Gould and Broaca leave for the Campaign of '56. They are running for President and Vice-President of the Know-Nothing Party, with Altmeyer as campaign-manager.

Josephs leaves with the signal honor of being the only man re-elected to Class Committee.

Second prize in the Know-More-English-Than-Henry - the - Eighth - Ever - Did Sweepstakes goes with Geller. (We are relieved to announce that King Henry the Eighth won first prize.)

Potenza leaves in a blaze of red, yellow, blue, chartreuse, and ultramarine.

Herman leaves to renovate Times Square.

Cerul leaves to get a haircut.

With his year's scholarship for proficiency in the Lake Poets, Needle joyfully looks forward to another rollicking year with Harper's Handy Handbook.

Casey leaves with a gilded shoelace.

De Minico, Lamonica, and Desimone leave to stage "Makbedt."

Cutter leaves after a short introduction.

Epstein leaves introducing Cutter's introduction.

There goes Leeco with his left-handed bowling ball!

Bressler leaves to write Latin translations of dishes featured at the "China House."

Stone leaves with no moss.

Watkins leaves chasing Coran for the Class Dues.

The two Doyles leave their name to posterity.

The "Three Notes" — Katz, Troderman, and Gerry Gordon — leave for a one-week engagement at Andrew Station.

Spencer Tobin carries on the Good Neighbor Policy assiduously, diligently, sedulously, indefatigably, ad infinitum.

Mortie Schwartz is leaving to publish his memoirs in "Real," the Magazine for Men.

Franchi leaves, still trying to prove that the world is a parallelogram.

Dobbyn and Murphy make room for Daddy, for Father knows best.

Faggett leaves memorialized in every Yearbook picture.

Nordahl makes a last stand, singing, "Shake,

Rattle, and Roll."

Hanson, Kramer, Gootman, and Serser leave to un-Locke Room 233.

After one year in the Record Club, Murray leaves in the groove.

Brandli leaves his pair of springs for next year's jumpshot king.

We bid farewell to the name of Sveikauskas since they have changed it to Merejcovski.

Clayton leaves to back up Rakhmolovitch's inspired conducting of Glazunov's "Dixie".

Meiselman leaves with a life's subscription to "Tom's Tidbits."

Roseman leaves with a new grindstone.

Jim Shapiro leaves, distributing Stevenson buttons at the front door.

We leave Fisch just for the halibut.

Watson has a new position illustrating "Ritchie's First Steps."

Hurwitz leaves Liss-less after six grueling years.

Stearns leaves behind his 99-average — way behind.

Starr leaves to take up residence at the Totem Pole.

Meehan is ready now to set the world on fire.

George Winthrop Pickering and Edward Augustine Gill leave for Louisburg Square.

Leven leaves, running.

After having sold $50 worth of Self-Defense stamps to the masters, Curley slips out quietly.

Keeley, Healy, and Hoodsie leave hand in hand in hand.

Yerkes leaves still happy.

Small wonder Brown leaves #1 in the class!

Stacks, Lahage, Abrams, and Beitchman leave in a flash.

Campanis leaves with an average acceleration of $100 per second per second.

President Rosenthal has the advantage in track, but . . . Whee! There goes Siegel!

There it is: the demented handiwork of youth corrupted by Shtop-Vatches, flyers before the Achievement Tests, logarithms, expurgated editions of Macbeth, and Prosper Merimée. Furthermore, for lessons in misanthropy preceding the drawing of this will, we are deeply indebted to Ambrose Burie without whom this this testament might have been accepted.

CLASS SONG

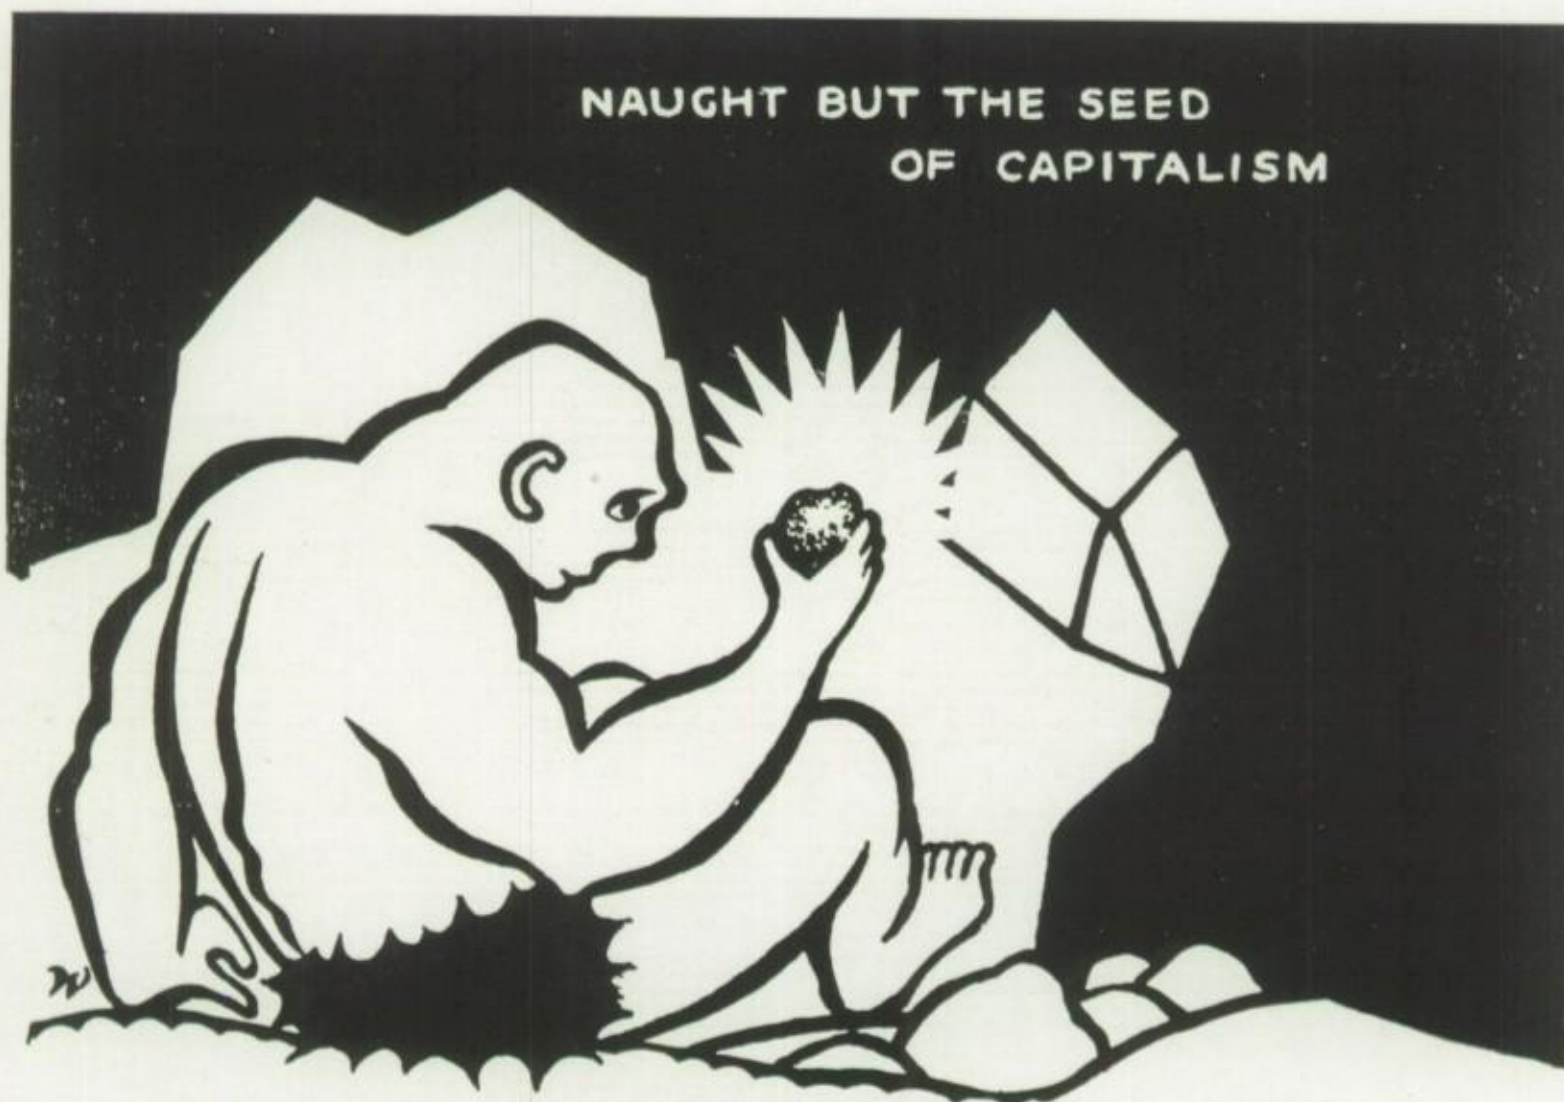

Music by Paul Arnold Epstein
Words by Bernard Arthur Geller

We the class of fif-ty Five, Now bid our last fare well, And at this time we leave be-hind the school we love so well.
So, your halls re-sound with me-mo-ries so dear; We'll hold your light for-ev-er bright, For us you'll have no peer.
REFRAIN:
Alma Ma-ter, as we end our high school days with you, We'll ne'er for-get the goals you've set And all your les-sons true.

II

You've given us our start in life —
Our futures we'll not fear.
We can't repay you for the friends
We met while we were here.

Now we vow we'll ever love
The Purple and the White,
Dear Alma Mater, Latin School,
Fore'er our guiding light.

BUSINESS

"To make yourself a country, you have to establish a business" was the sage remark of an old-time commentator on the passing scene. If business is the indicator of national prosperity, then there is little to worry about in the economic future of America.

Before the Civil War, the extent of business was relatively small when compared with what has followed. Although the country was from the first predominantly agricultural, with the advent of the McCormick reaper farming became profitable. After the Civil War, however, railroads and cheap labor from overseas accelerated the rise of business. From 1870 on, it has not stopped its phenomenal growth.

In turning out able businessmen, the Latin School has not lacked success. As far back as 1852, Mr. Henry Lee Higginson, Boston's "first citizen" for many years, was graduated from the school. In more recent times, one of our alumni has become a leader of the hotel industry — Mr. Abraham Sonnabend. Another prominent national figure is Mr. Roy Larsen, a top official for the Luce publications — Time, Life, Fortune and Sports Illustrated.

Opportunities in commerce and industry are abundant and varied for the well-prepared graduate of Latin School.

ATHLETICS

HENRY LEE HIGGINSON, Class of 1852

Of Puritan descent, Henry Lee Higginson, who served as Director of many important corporations, was noted for his sturdiness and steadiness of character. In 1881, he founded the Boston Symphony Orchestra and contributed to its support for a long period. His general prominence in civic affairs caused him to be called "Boston's First Citizen."

ROY LARSEN, Class of 1917

This man may well be called "one of the most successful publishers of our time." Although his name is probably not familiar to many B.L.S. undergraduates, his publications — which include Time, Life, and Fortune — are known to millions. Starting in 1923 with Time, then Fortune in 1930, and finally Life in 1937, his publishing firm now has built up sales of $128,000,000. "March of Time" newsreels, too, are popular in theatres and on the television screen. In addition to activities connected with these enterprises, he is active in citizens' committees for public school improvements and in other civic affairs.

ABRAHAM M. SONNABEND, Class of 1914

A businessman of many projects and of great ability, A. M. Sonnabend has concentrated largely on the operation of hotels. They are located in all parts of the country, from Boston (the Somerset) to San Francisco. Aside from his commercial activities, he is engaged in philanthropic enterprises — the funds of one going concern, the Edgewater Beach Hotel, being entirely donated to charity and to the support of educational institutions.

Football

The 1954 B.L.S. football squad finished the regular season with six victories, no defeats, and one tie. Under "Pep" McCarthy, it was the second time in three years that Latin has taken the City Championship.

After dropping a 6-0 decision to East Boston in the Jamboree, the Purple went on to beat Dorchester, 27-6. In that game, B.L.S. led all the way. Playing in 90-degree heat on Columbus Day, the best Latin could do was play a scoreless tie with B. C. High. The game was marred by fumbles, interceptions, and wasted scoring opportunities. Late in the contest a Latin run deep into Eaglet territory was called back because of a penalty; and, as the game ended, B. C. High was on the 10-yard line. B.L.S. found themselves again as they nosed out Tech, 18-13, in a game that saw more than 200 yards in penalties. The Purple then pulled off one of the biggest upsets of the season by defeating South Boston, 13-6. Coach McCarthy, stating after the game that the team played almost to perfection, had nothing but praise for quarterback Dick Powers, who handled the team smoothly under bad playing conditions. After the Trade game had been postponed, the Purple rolled over Memorial, 26-0, scoring all points in the first half. Latin then continued on its winning ways by crushing a definitely outclassed Brighton eleven, 46-6. Playing on Saturday morning instead of on Thanksgiving, because of inclement weather, the Purple maintained Coach McCarthy's record of never having been beaten by English. They defeated the Blue by a score of 20-7.

One factor in the team's success was the line. It included Dave Block and Ed Donahue at end, Bill Tobin and Bob Grossman at tackle, Co-Captains Paul Troiano and Frank Casey at guard, with John Smith at center. Frequent alternates were Bill Parks, John Joyce, Ed Leahy, Paul Campanis, Frank Rowan, John Martin, and Joe Lucido.

The backfield consisted of Dick Powers and Dick Levine at quarterback, Emile Coulon and Harry Vieira at halfback, and "Slash" Johnson at fullback. On defense it was Powers with Charlie Battaglia. Other standouts were Dick Marshall, Pete Franchi, and Charlie Carp.

The outlook for next year is promising. Returning to the backfield will be four outstanding Juniors. The line will be strengthened by the return of Joe Lucido and several other top-notch performers.

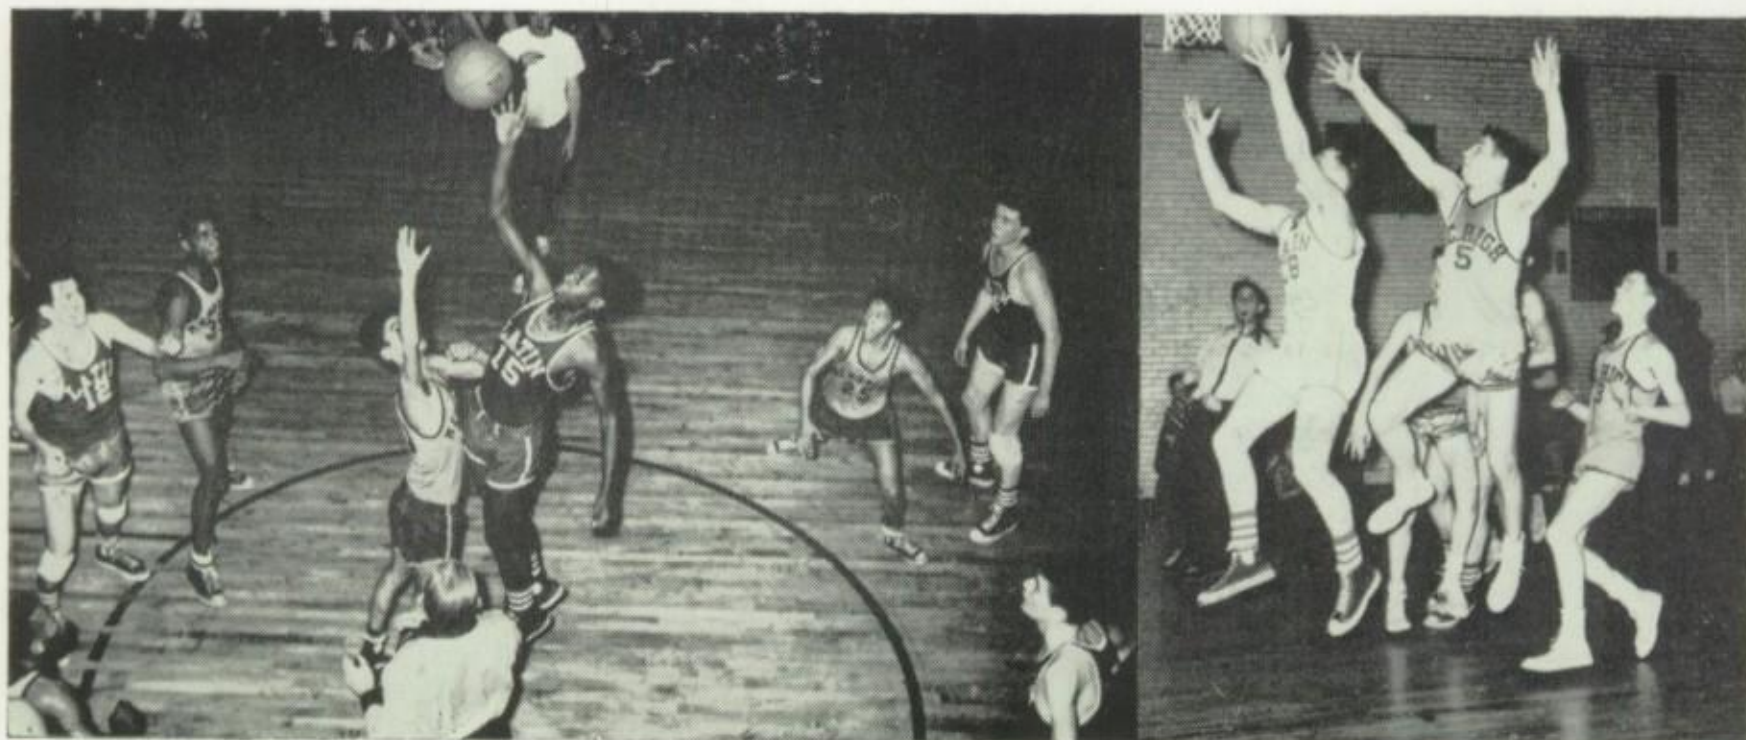

Lettermen: Corvi, Carp, Johnson, Levine, Vieira, George, Coulon, Powers, Battaglia, McCool, Franchi, Marshall, Smith, Broaca, Lucido, Casey, Troiano, Martin, Vangel, Slovin, Haynes, Puccia, Gray, Brown, Di Gangi, Tacelli, Chambers, Campanis, Leahy, Piraino, Grossman, Feitelberg, Rowan, Tobin, Whalen, Hartnett, Herson, Strom, W. Parks, J. Parks, Yaffe, Donahue, Block, Joyce.

Managers: Robinson and Goring.

Basketball

The city championship, which had been awaited since 1947, finally returned to the school. Coach Patten ran the all-Senior line-up with the utmost proficiency; and if not for a few bad breaks in two games, the team would have achieved an unbeaten record. Headed by John Bennett, scoring leader in the city (235 points), Hank Brandli (167), Bob Thomson (132), Co-Captain Bob Watkins (104), John Page (45), Mike Leven (42), and Steve Stearns (41), the squad rolled up some of the highest scores in Latin School history, averaging over sixty-eight points a game. The strong reserves — led by Co-Captain Barry Russman, Bob Salton, and Don Watson — also aided the team in many a tight spot. Next year's hopes are high with Fred Pereira, Dick Goodman, Ken Robinson, Steve Kelley, and Chuck Bennett returning. Orchids once again to Coach Patten, Manager Eccles, and Co-Captains Bob Watkins and Barry Russman.

Lettermen: Leven, Pereira, Brandli, Co-Captain Watkins, Salton, John Bennett, Thomson, Stearns, Charles Bennett, Collias, Co-Captain Russman, Robinson, Watson, Goodman, Kelley, and Page.

Hockey

The Liber Actorum congratulates the '55 hockey squad and Coach Thomas, who kept the City Championship at B.L.S. Entering the last game, Latin was tied with English on points. Goals by "Gene" McLaughlin and "Jack" Grant were enough to win the game, to gain the championship, and to produce an undefeated season. In the tourney Latin was beaten by Walpole, 1-0, in the opening round.

The "Champs" were a well-balanced unit — scoring thirty-five goals while holding the opposition to but fourteen. The offense was sparked by the first line of "Gene" McLaughlin — centering "Joe" Botbol and "Jack" Grant while "Spense" Tobin and John O'Connor did a good job protecting "Stub" Altmeyer in the net. McLaughlin, Grant, Tobin, and Altmeyer were honored by All-Star recognition.

With the return of several younger members — led by Cohen, McAuliffe, McSwiney, Guillotti, and Crosson — prospects are bright for next year.

Lettermen: Altmeyer, Strock, O'Connor, Tobin, Guiliotti, Dobbyn, Crosson, McSwiney, McAuliffe, Cohen, Botbol, J. Grant, McLaughlin, Keely.

Track

This year's track team has been overshadowed by other outfits, but only because these squads were brilliant. The team was a success.

The Purple romped in the triangular opener over Memorial and Trade in its best performance. After that victory, they waxed hot and cold. Latin finished second in the next meet; took third in the following one; and captured first place in the last regular meet of the season.

The best scorers in Class A were Rosenthal, Franchi, Holtz, Faggett, Carp, and Griffin. Rosenthal was superb in the hurdles and high jump, pacing Latin in the B.A.A., the State, and the National Meets. Franchi was our best broad-jump performer. Holtz, Latin's top cross-country runner, was outstanding in the "600". Paul Troiano once again was master at the shotput, and Carp was the boy to watch in the "50". Al Serser was a constant threat in the "300".

In Class B, Lieberman, a consistent winner in both hurdles and high jump, appears to be following in Rosenthal's footsteps. Katz was a regular winner of the broad jump and "220".

Class C had many outstanding tracksters.

Graham regularly won both the broad jump and the "176". Lipshires led in the high jump and the dash. The Class C performers, continuously victorious in all events, should help to regain the City Championship.

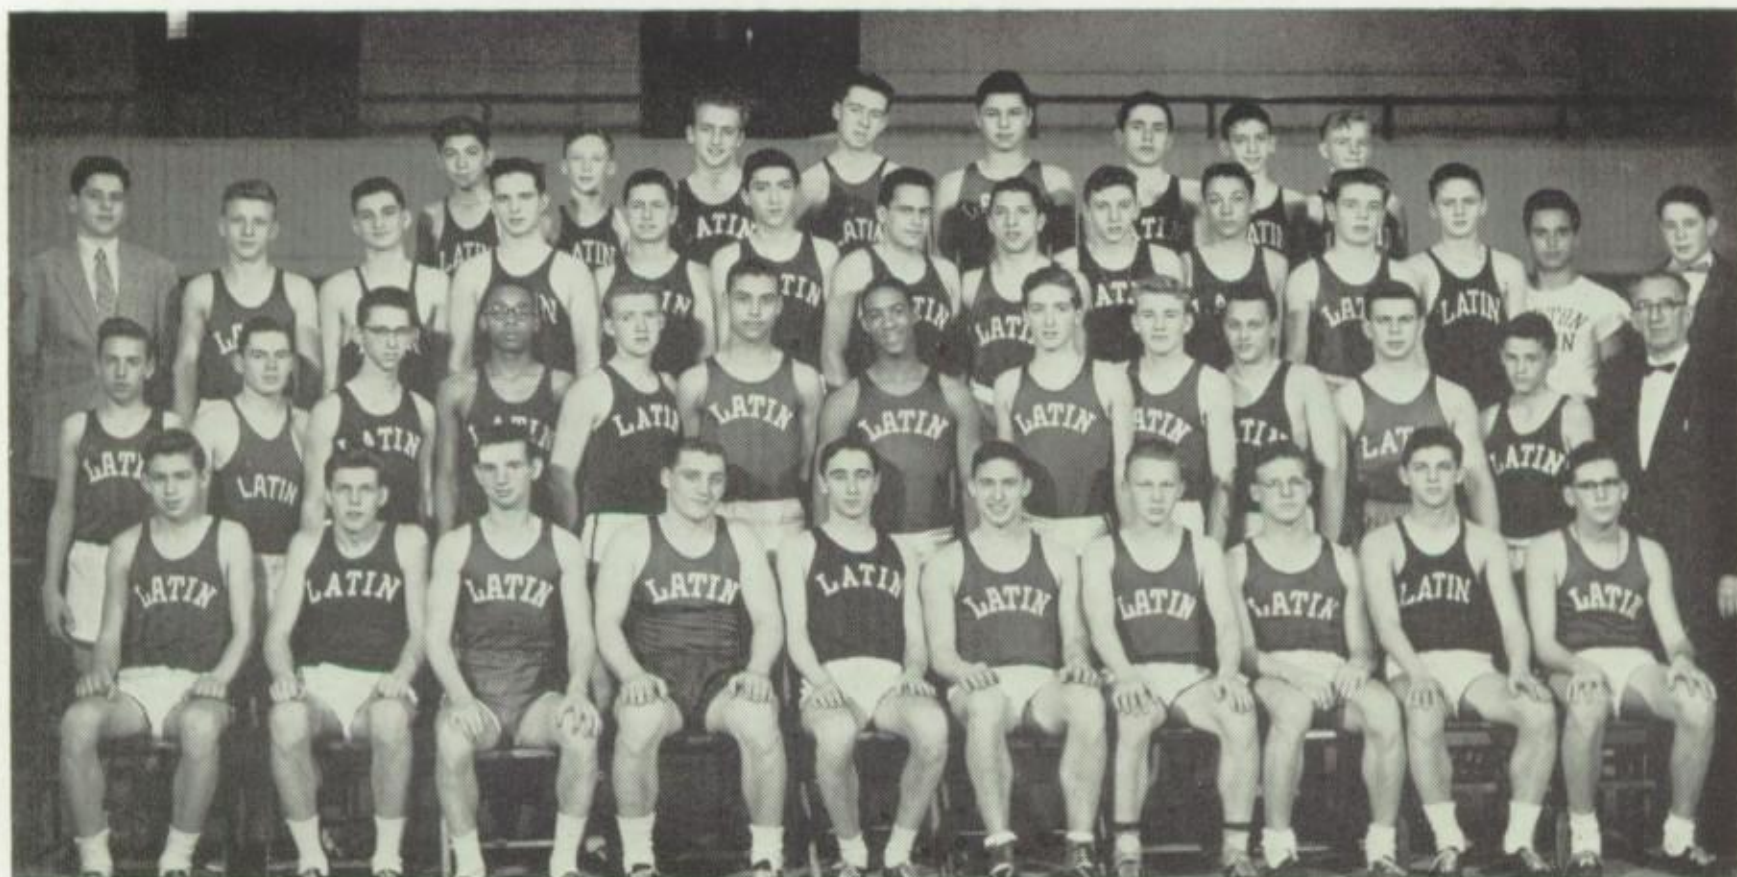

The team will lose Rosenthal, one of the outstanding all-time trackmen at B.L.S.; but, with veteran coach "Charlie" Fitzgerald once more at the helm, the 1956 team bids fair to be great.

Lettermen: Rosenthal, Troiano, Serser, Cahn, Siparsky, Franchi, Faggett, Holtz, Doherty, Griffin, Carp, Marshall, Lieberman, Katz, Feitelberg, Preman, Gerome, Odorome, Pederson, Talbert, Woods, Daley, Murphy, Lipshires, Prince, Flynn, Graham, Schawbel, Masotta, Bonanno, Kirk, Karimbakas, La-Marre, Salamore, Gertsen, Dobrel, Getteen, Molan, Axelrod, Gray, Wulf.

SEASON'S RECORD

First Meet: Latin won — 144½ points
Second Meet: Latin Second — 97 points
Third Meet: Latin third — 54 points
Fourth Meet: Latin won — 118½ points
Reggies: Latin second — 60⅓ points

Baseball

With '54-'55 already a banner year in sports, it is now up to the baseball team to emulate the great success of the football, basketball, and hockey teams. Although at this writing no games have yet been played, the return of many veterans forecasts a very successful season. The outfield seems to be the least of the ever-youthful Mr. Fitzgerald's problems, with such stalwarts as Bill Tobin, "Slash" Johnson, Harry Veiera, and "Red" Gill hustling for an outfield berth. To take the place of Veneziano, two varsity pitchers are returning in Marsh Cogan and Paul Corvi. To discourage enemy baserunners from coming home, we have as catcher the durable Lucido, who did a good job last year as a sophomore. The infield — having lost through graduation "Boots" Connolly, "Duke" Shnider, and Matty Levine — has only Dick Levine returning at shortstop.

Standing on the initial sack will probably be either Dick Powers or Pete Broaca. Vying for the starting job at the keystone sack are Emile Coulon and Ed Donahue. At the hot corner the logical starter seems to be Bob Burns or MacSwiney. Heavy hitting, experience, and hustle may make this team a championship one. Liber Actorum sends best wishes for a highly successful team to Coaches Fitzgerald and McCarthy, Manager Roseman, and members of the squad.

First Row: McSwiney, Corvi, Levine, Powers, Tobin, Salton, Burns, Coulon. Second Row: Soble, Mgr., Easa, Smith, Sweeney, Clark, Burke, Collins, Teebagy, Mgr., Third Row: Giantis, Thomson, Maguire, Broaca, Rowan, Tacelli, Freedman, Mansfield.

Tennis

Latin should have little trouble in capturing its seventh straight City Championship, as last year's standout netmen were mostly Juniors.

The team is fortunate because no starters from last year will be lost. The Cerul brothers, Dave and Murray, are a cinch to win starting berths. Other returnees are Bob Watkins, Dave Rosenthal, Barry Russman, Bob Liss, Saul Hymans, Marv Sezak, Bob Dussick, and Dave Levine.

It's anybody's guess as to who will be selected for the doubles. Tennis is another sport dominated by Seniors, who will probably lead Latin to another championship.

First Row: Ozols, Teebagy, Budginas, Strock. Second Row: Hogan, Zilinskas, Moskalew, Dussick.

Soccer

After a somewhat cold start, the B.L.S. soccer team got hot and won three straight from Wilson A. C. and Medford (2). A disappointing 1-0 loss to Roxbury Latin, however, cooled the squad down again. The team's average showing this year was not for want of good players, but for lack of experience, practice, and replacements.

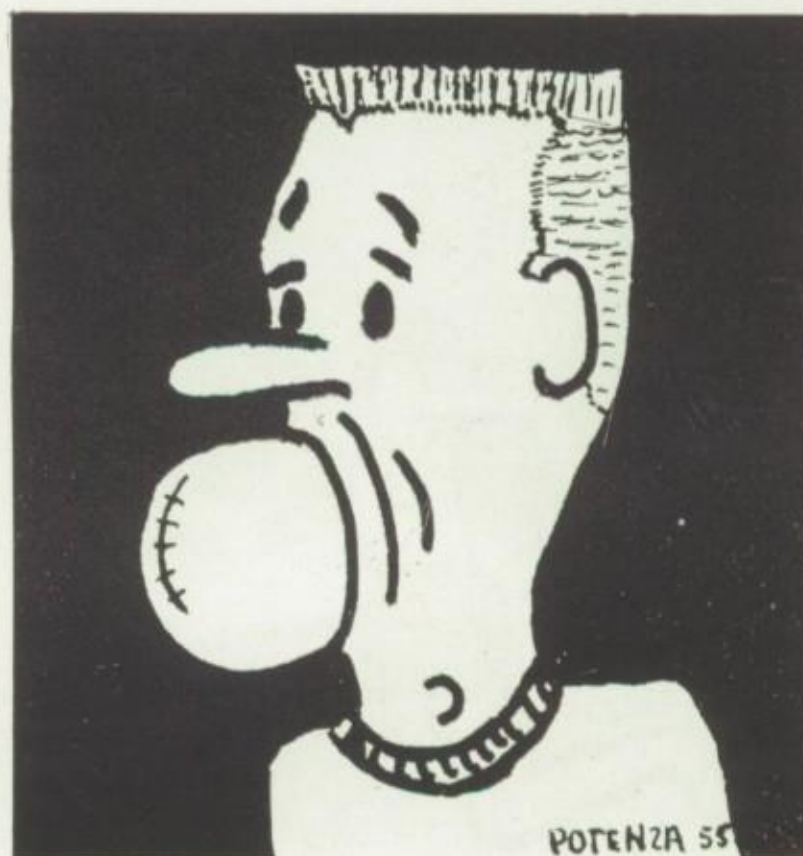

Outstanding Seniors included Co-Captains Budginas and Russman, who played the line; and Strock and Collias, who shared the goal duties. Dussik, Ozols, and Leonavicius were all prominent underclassmen.

Cross Country

The cross-country team at the outset looked very promising, but injuries to Bob Holtz and Bob Doherty lowered its chances for success. Among outstanding Seniors were Captain "Duke" Eagan, Jim Healy, Jack Dailey, and Walt Faggett. Art Cahn and Bob Doherty led the Juniors.

In the Boston City Meet, on October 8, Latin placed four among the first ten. The winner was Bob Holtz in 14:21. Jack Dailey finished fourth; "Duke" Eagan, fifth; and Jim Healy, ninth. Tech won the meet with twenty-six points; and Latin finished a close second, with thirty-one.

In the unusual meet held October 26, popularly known as the "Duck-Race," a Latinite came in first and another drew up in last place. The winner was John Griffin, who received for his prize a white duck. A turtle was given to the last-place contestant.

The Purple finished second in the Reggies and ninth in the State Meet. Both of these contests were won by English, which represented Massachusetts in the New England finals.

Looking ahead to next year, we find some excellent prospects. Among the Sophomores and Freshmen this year, Ed Anthony, Billy Schawbel, Joe LeMarre, Al Fraticelli, Chris Karimbokis, and Bob Underwood are the most promising. The only one of these who ran in the State Meet is LeMarre. All meets were held at White Stadium.

Credit should be given to Cliff Ronan and Tom Marr of English and Joe Carey of Tech, who aided Charlie FitzGerald in training the team.

GOVERNMENT

When the War for Independence erupted, Massachusetts found that the Latin School had been producing men to lead their communities and, afterwards, the Republic — men like Sam Adams, John Hancock, Henry Knox, and William Hooper. . . . During the Civil War, there was Charles Francis Adams, Minister to England an outstanding figure of the nineteenth century. . . . Throughout its long history, the Latin School has graduated mayors, governors, justices, and chief justices enough to provide inspiration to boys considering government as a career.

Senator Charles Sumner, Mayor Frederic Prince, and Mayor Samuel Elliot — among others — decided to make politics their profession. Charles K. Tuckerman became our Minister to Greece; John Motley, in addition to his outstanding work as historian, served as minister to Austria and to England. After long and reputable careers as lawyers, Charles Devens was appointed Attorney-General by President Hayes, and Alfred Moore a Supreme Court Justice.

The field of government is wide and varied. It is constantly in need of capable young men such as the Latin School has always supplied in large numbers.

ORGANIZATIONS

SAMUEL ADAMS, Class of 1735

Samuel Adams, one of the most famous leaders of the American Revolution, displayed an unflinching zeal for popular rights. As a candidate for the Patriotic Party, he was elected to the Legislature. A member of the First Continental Congress, he was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

JOHN HANCOCK, Class of 1751

A leader of the revolt in Massachusetts, John Hancock, who vehemently denounced such affairs as the Boston Massacre, was President of the First Continental Congress and first signer of the Declaration of Independence. As President of the Commonwealth's Constitutional Convention of 1788, he did much for the adoption of the Federal Constitution.

JOSEPH KENNEDY, Class of 1908

For twenty-five years President of the Colonial Trust Company in Boston, Joseph P. Kennedy was an ardent supporter of Roosevelt in 1932. Soon after, he became Secretary of the Export Commission. As first Chairman of the Federal Maritime Commission, he was charged with the heavy responsibility of building up our sadly neglected merchant marine. In the crucial period from 1937 to 1940, he was our ambassador to Great Britain. He is the father of U. S. Senator John F. Kennedy.

PUBLICATIONS ADVISORS

PHILIP MARSON

The high literary quality of the Register and Liber Actorum is, in large measure, due to the work of Mr. Marson.

After graduating from English High School, Mr. Marson spent four years at and received his Bachelor's degree from Tufts College, where he studied journalism. At the same time he was active on the football, baseball, and basketball teams. He has taught at Needham High, St. Paul Academy, Newton High, and the Rivers Country Day School. In 1926 he became a member of the English Department of Boston Latin School. After receiving his Master's degree in 1928, Mr. Marson founded the Amalgamated Order of the Aardvark, of which he is still the faculty adviser. For the past nineteen years, his summers have been spent as Director of Camp Alton in New Hampshire.

LEE J. DUNN

As Senior adviser, school librarian, and adviser to the Liber Actorum, Mr. Dunn helps to straighten out the troubles of Class I. He has done much to help each boy with his problems concerning admittance to college.

Mr. Dunn is a member of the Class of 1928 of Boston Latin School. He received his Bachelor's degree from Teachers College. As a member and officer of the Alumni Association, he has done much for the school. Besides filling out college recommendations, Mr. Dunn's favorite pastimes are photography and athletics.

AARON GORDON

Mr. Gordon, the business adviser to the school's two publications, is responsible for the financial welfare of the Register and yearbook.

After graduating from Latin School in 1923 and Harvard in 1927, Mr. Gordon became a member of the faculty at B.L.S. in 1929. Since then he has taught history and German. At present Mr. Gordon is the Youth Director at Temple Israel. During the summer he directs Camp Tevya.

ALFRED ROSENTHAL

When he is not teaching history, Mr. Rosenthal acts as business adviser to the Register and Liber Actorum.

After graduating from Boston Latin School in 1929, Mr. Rosenthal went to Harvard College. While there he was awarded a Phi Beta Kappa key. He has been teaching at Latin School since 1935.

The yearbook staff had a difficult job from the very beginning. In the first place the "higher ups" had judged the Class of 1955 to be wealthy and hence raised the amount of the "voluntary" contribution from each Senior. Then several clubs appeared for the first time. Among these are the Record Club (for those who like music but do not wear glasses) and the Outing Club (for those eager to get a Merit Badge in Forestry).

Under the guiding lash of the Executive Committee, the publication began to take shape. As the data on the Seniors was gathered, at the latest count, 306 were members of the Fisher Body Craftsmen's Guild (26 letters) and 298 were Assistant Sergeant-at-arms in Junior Achievement (42 letters). Nevertheless, in spite of two hurricanes, four blizzards, and sixteen angry dogs, the yearbook went to press.

In the dead of the night, when other students were sleeping, after having completed their sixteen hours of homework, members of the yearbook staff could be seen working on their copy. To make matters even more complicated, the deadline was set for February 28, the earliest in sixty-three years. The results of all the "blood, sweat, and tears" are to be seen on every page of this book.

The members of the Liber staff offer their heartfelt thanks to the publication advisers — Mr. Marson, Mr. Gordon, Mr. Rosenthal, and Mr. Dunn — without whose help this yearbook could never have been possible.

The Register, the oldest high school publication in America, has been in existence for seventy-four years. The Register, however, is also distinctive among school magazines because of the number of First Prizes and Medalist Awards it has won in the annual competition sponsored by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. This year, the Register has received the Medalist Award.

There are very few school activities to which anyone can belong, regardless of class; the Register is one of them. Some boys have been on either the Literary or the Business Staffs since they were in Class Six.

The members of the Register staff wish to offer their deepest thanks to Mr. Marson, Mr. Gordon, and Mr. Rosenthal, without whose aid the continuing success of the Register would not be possible. Also, we wish to thank the school as a whole for supporting and encouraging our publication.

National Honor Society

OFFICERS

President, EDWARD SAEF
Secretary, CHARLES NEEDLE
Treasurer, PAUL CAMPANIS

Under the capable leadership of Mr. Kozodoy and Mr. Levine, the Boston Latin School Chapter of the National Honor Society completed its seventh year with a carefully formulated program of activities.

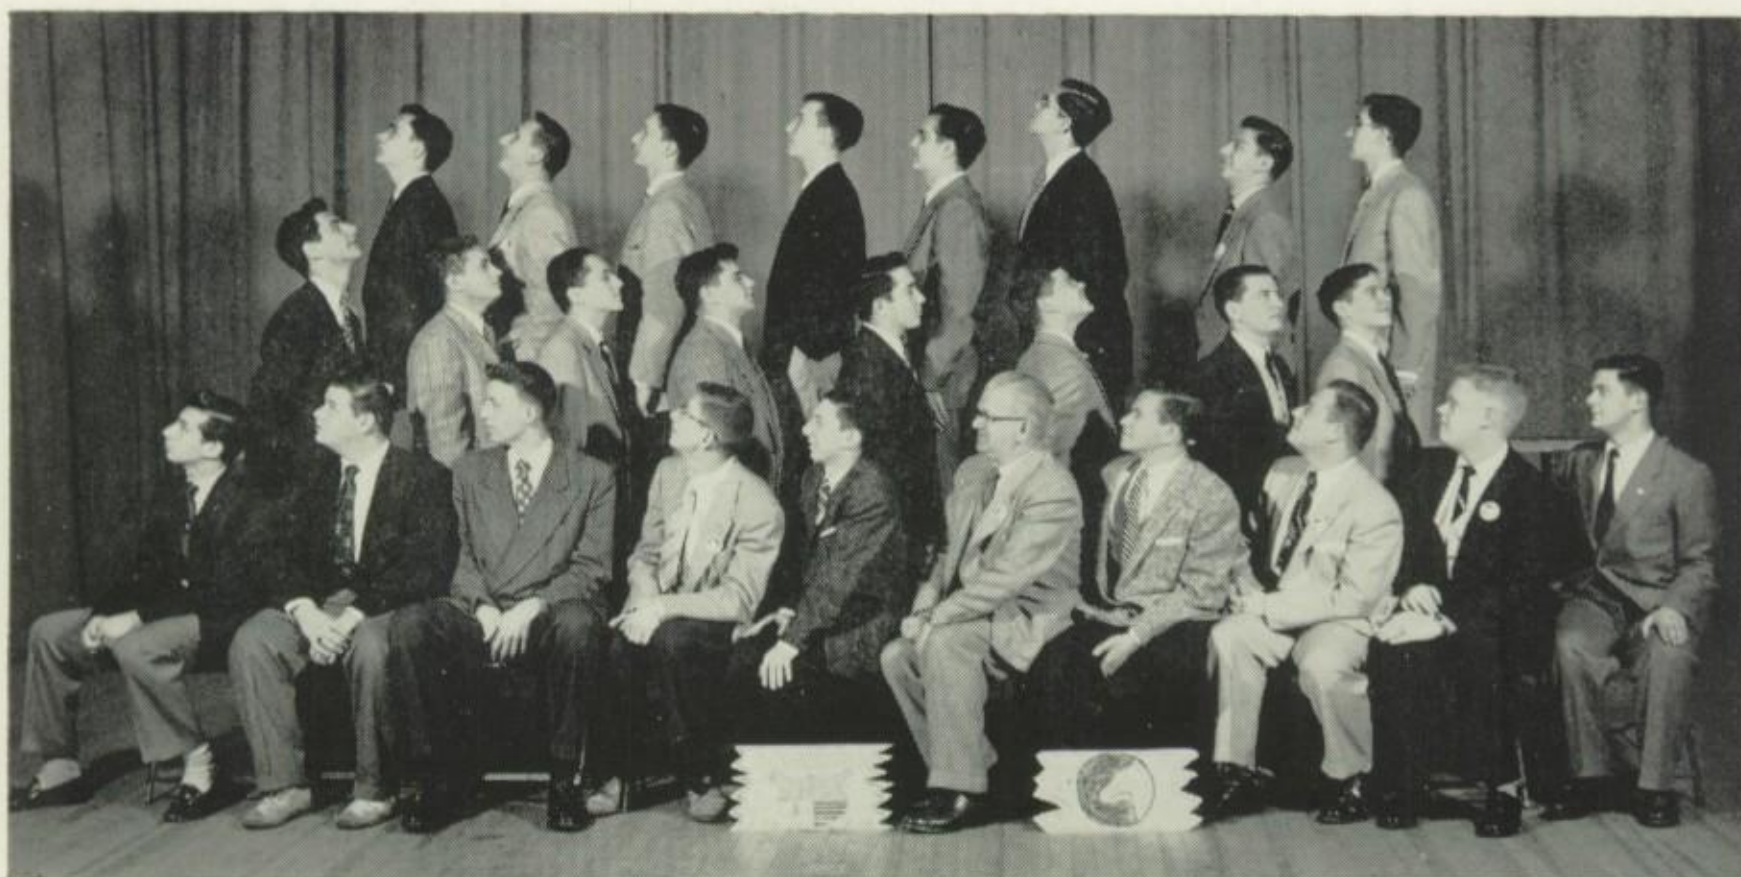

The Society once more undertook the sale of War Savings Stamps and Bonds. Members assiduously sold stamps weekly, and under their leadership sales increased rapidly.

On February eighteenth, the Honor Society put on a gala talent show in the Assembly Hall. The show was highlighted by several singing and dancing groups of girls from South Boston. Credit for success of the show goes in large measure to Chairman Cerul and President Saef.

Undergraduates who have aspirations of attaining success at Boston Latin School should realize that the National Honor Society is the foremost academic organization of the school, and induction into the Society is the highest honor that may be bestowed upon a boy at Latin School.

"IF IT WERE NOT FOR MY AARDVARK, I THINK I COULD NOT LIVE."

The Aardvarks is an organization dedicated to several ideals. The first, sine qua non, is the relentless struggle for the preservation and protection of the Aardvark. The amazing fact about this creature is the enormous size of its proboscis; hence, its nose has become the symbol of the Society. The patron saint is Cyrano de Bergerac, and among our honorary members are such dignitaries as Jimmy Durante.

The second objective is to suppress all literature supporting vivisection, Communism, and education. There are several other aims too esoteric to mention in a report of this nature. Among them is the violent overthrow of the insect kingdom.

As the Wise Old Aardvark once said in clandestine conclave: "Facies tantum a matre amata." These words express, best of all, the qualifications of our membership.

Vice-President, PAUL BADEN
Secretary, NICHOLAS DUSHKU
Treasurer, JAMES DEVLIN

"When in Rome, do as the Romans do;" and when in the Air Age, become acquainted with aviation. The main purposes of the Aviation Club are to encourage interest in the building of model planes, to discuss types of planes and their construction, and to present talks on recent developments in aviation. As all these aims have been realized this year, the Club has been more successful than ever. The Club is grateful to Mr. Murphy for his supervision and guidance throughout the season.

Rumor has it that members have been agitating for a landing-field on the roof of the school because of acute parking conditions on Avenue Louis Pasteur. The staff wishes them luck and sincerely admires their superb initiative.

Bowling Club

President, KENNETH LEECO
Vice-President, GERALD KAPLAN
Treasurer, STEPHEN MILLER
Secretary, VICTOR SINKUS

Once again the Latin School bowlers participated in the Intramural Bowling League. The newly organized league conducted a red-hot contest for first-place laurels. After all the strikes and spares had been counted up, the championship went to Room 332. The winning team was comprised of Collias, Gordon, Kutz, Palmieri, and Rosenthal. To be singled out for individual recognition is Steve Miller. This Senior had a hot hand and had the high single string of the year with a score of 130 as well as the top score for three strings (331). During the past campaign the top ten consisted of Collias (98.8), Palmieri (94.8), Miller (94.8), Dobbyn (93.5), Leeco (92.9), Kaplan (92.6), Weitz (92), Lew (91.4), Sinkus (90), and Budginas (89.8). Final recognition must be given to Mr. Thomas for a highly creditable season.

Camera Club

President, LEON MENZER
Vice-President, LAWRENCE ABRAMS
Treasurer, LOUIS COHEN
Secretary, ROBERT LAHAGE
Sergeant-at-Arms, ARNOLD MILLER

The Camera Club met at regular intervals under the supervision of Mr. Dunn. The club offered a variety of subject-matter to interest every member, from the lowliest shutter-bug to the most experienced Register photographer.

Several members were surprised to find that developing pictures required no incantations of witchcraft. Others went rushing to their dictionaries to look up anastigmatic aberration. Some cameras were disassembled and, more often than not, put back together again.

Outside of several cases of temporary blindness caused by sudden flash-bulb exposure, the club had a very successful season. As we leave this happy group, we can hear the shutters clicking in the distance, getting ready for next year.

First Row: Kinburn, Spector, Jacobson, Perlow, Treasurer; Cerul, President; Mr. Van Steenberg, Siegel, Vice-President; Wenocur, Hootnick, Gorvine. Second Row: Papkin, Dong, Lutch, Davison, Finkelstein, Tallas, Ozols, Gerstman, Carp, Goldfarb, Magazine, Nadler. Third Row: Levine, Frank, Starr, Romberg, Onton, Zolot, Kopelman, Porter, Goldman, Simon, Goodman.

Chess Club

President, MAURICE CERUL
Vice-President, KENNETH SIEGEL
Secretary, STANLEY WENOCUR
Treasurer, GERALD PERLOW

The Chess Club deserves credit not only for its excellent record of achievement, but also for the amazing command of pronunciation by its members. The hats of all the Yearbook Staff go off to any one who can say Ktq4 or even QxKBP intelligibly.

Chess is the oldest game in which chance is not involved. To win a chess game from a skilled opponent is highly creditable. The pleasure derived from playing chess is the chief reason for the founding of the Chess Club. Its aims are to stimulate interest in chess and to develop teams creditably representing the school. If enjoyment and the development of skill contribute to the success of the Club, the members will certainly agree that this year has been highly successful.

No small part of the credit goes to the Faculty Adviser, Mr. Van Steenberg, who has supervised the sessions.

Debating Club

President, BERNARD GELLER
Vice-President, ARNOLD CORAN
Secretary, HERMAN SAVITZ
Treasurer, ROBERT LISS

The group devoted to Forensic Activities has completed a most successful season. After conducting five forums and completing successful debates with Boston College High School and Groton, the club feels it owes a debt of gratitude for the perseverance of its new faculty adviser, Mr. F. E. Sullivan.

Under the able guidance of Mr. Sullivan and President Geller, the club, for the first time in its long history, was taught the fundamentals of rhetorical debating and given lessons in debating logic and its fallacies.

The club can feel well satisfied that the past year has brought with it much enjoyment and knowledge and many victories.

First Row: Ruttenberg, Divver, Caulfield, Mr. Russo, Maio, Pickering. Second Row: Mezoff, Donovan, Nelson, Smith, Lieberman, Ladoulis, Wulf.

Dramatics

The house-lights dimmed; a hush fell on the audience; and the curtains parted on the first act of the play, "I Like It Here." One and a half hours later, the curtains closed on the final act to resounding applause.

At long last, the Dramatics Club was able to apply its extensive knowledge of direction, production, and stagecraft. Early this year, the Dramatics Club, under the direction of Mr Russo, began preparations for a three-act comedy. The long hours of hard rehearsing, however, proved rewarding on opening night when the play was heartily received.

The Dramatic Club's aim is to give members a chance to act and to acquaint them with problems involved in directing and producing a play. Students learn how to handle scenery, lighting, and other elements of stagecraft. In addition, the Club demonstrates how co-operation is an important factor in school life.

French Club

President, ALAN CLAYTON
Vice-President, FREDERICK PERERA
Secretary, HARRY KUSHNIR

The French Club this year has been very fortunate in having, among its members, some students who have acquired a real flair for oral French. They have entertained us with splendid dissertations on French life, manners, and customs; they have discussed famous French men and women, both historical and contemporary. The talk on Mendes-France and his policies was of timely importance. Mr. Levine, l'âme et l'esprit du Cercle Français, has added new vigor to the meetings with the use of the Linguaphone records. We are looking forward to the annual French Prize Pronunciation contest, and we expect again to have M. Charles-Roux, the French Consul, award the prizes.

German Club

President, EDWARD SAEF
Vice-President, HERMAN SAVITZ
Secretary, ARNOLD GOLDSTEIN
Treasurer, MARVIN HURWITZ
Sergeant-at-Arms, JOEL SCHWARTZ

The German Club of 1954-'55 enjoyed a successful year under the able leadership of our new adviser, Mr. Zoll. In keeping with the tradition of the Club, talks on all phases of Germany and the German people were given, both in English and German. The foremost questions of the day — The Saar Plan and the Re-armament of Germany — were avidly debated for several meetings. The club devoted one session to German music and composers, and one to the showing of a German film. The officers are sure, by means of the many lively discussions, that the Club promoted interest in the art, music, literature, and science of Germany.

Glee Club

President, PETER NORDAHL
Vice-President, MELVIN KIZNER
Treasurer, JOSHUA DAVID SHAPIRO
Secretary, SIDNEY RUBENSTEIN

Once again the Latin School Glee Club had a very good year. Under the able leadership of Mr. Famiglietti, the Club performed on many special occasions. Outside of the regular school activities, the Glee Club was heard at the Statler during the "Eastern Confederation of Musical Educators Convention" and at the "Professional Women's Club". Highlights of the season included excellent performances given at the Christmas assembly, Class Day, and Graduation. So that they might be ready for these performances, informal classes were held in group-singing throughout the year. Thanks must be given to Mr. Famiglietti, who presided over the weekly meetings, for his patient listening and handling of the group. Congratulations are extended to the entire Glee Club for the pleasant listening with which they provided us.

Greek Club

President, PAUL CAMPANIS
Vice-President, ARTHUR COLLIAS
Secretary, ANTHONY PALMIERI
Treasurer, JOHN REAGEN

Once again this year, when Greek met Greek in the Boston Latin School, the collision resulted in meetings of the Greek Club. Under the able supervision of Mr. Locke, this organization assembles for the purpose of promoting the study of Greek arts, customs, language, and literature. "The Story of the Iliad and the Odyssey," "The Life of Socrates," "Modern Greece," and "The Olympic Games" were among the interesting topics discussed. Led by its officers and active members, the club was once more successful in recapturing a little of "the glory that was Greece."

Highway Safety Club

President, WILLIAM HOURIHAN
Vice-President, STEPHEN GROSSMAN
Secretary, MARVIN HURWITZ
Treasurer, LAWRENCE ABRAMS
Executive Committee, BARRY SNIDER
ROBERT SOLOMON

The members of the Highway Safety Club were welcomed at the first meeting by Faculty Adviser Mr. Bergen, who explained the purposes and functions of the club, stressing such factors as driver education, proper driving attitude, and knowledge of the road.

The club was fortunate in having a guest speaker, Mr. Condon, from Hardware Mutuals, Inc., at the next meeting. He gave a speech on automobiles and answered questions asked by the boys who were present. A film entitled "Motor Mania," which had to do with safe driving, was shown. Booklets containing proper driving procedures and rules of the road were given to the members.

In the December meeting three of the members — Solomon, M. Schwartz, and Murray — served as a panel of experts, answering questions presented by the audience. These questions were based on the material relating to the motor vehicle laws of Massachusetts.

In February Charles Goodwin of Liberty Mutual Insurance Company talked on loss prevention in driving techniques and training.

A skit covering the rules and regulations of the road was presented by the members of the Junior Class in March. Additional programs for future meetings will include guest speakers, films, and informal discussions on driver education.

Key Club

President, ERLING HANSON
Vice-President, BERNARD KRAMER
Secretary, ALVIN SERSER
Treasurer, JOSEPH MURPHY

To correct a fallacy that has been spread about the school, the members of the Key Club do not have to pay dues to the Amalgamated Locksmith's Union, Local #4. They do not even have to belong; instead, the admission is based on the character and scholarship of the individual — a much better system.

Sponsored by Kiwanis International, the Club follows the example of the parent organization, doing philanthropic work and helping other school organizations. The members have volunteered to work at nearby hospitals; they are selling advertisements in the Dramatics Club programs to raise money for scholarships; they have helped address envelopes for the Office. The purpose of the Key Club is clearly shown in the above examples of the work it is doing: to keep the country secure by insuring the integrity of the coming generation.

Mr. Kozodoy, the Faculty Adviser, deserves much credit for the success of the Club in the two short years of its existence.

Latin Club

President, BERNARD GELLER
Vice-President, LEOPOLD SVEIKAUSKAS
Secretary, ARNOLD GOLDSTEIN
Treasurer, PAUL BADEN

The chief activity of the Latin Club, etymology, was handled very well this year by President Geller in the hope of preparing a team to spell victory for Latin School at the "Know English Contest". Members will be able to prove their mettle when, at the end of the year, an inter-club contest will be held and prizes given.

This year members showed a great zeal for Roman and Greek mythology, as indicated by the many acrostics. Lectures on Roman culture and civilization and on various phases of the Latin language were given. A talk on the life of Quintus Horatius Flaccus was also presented. Additional information was provided by the Club's able director, Mr. Miller.

Literary Club

President, GERALD GOOTMAN
Vice-Presidents, EDWARD LEAHY
 MYER KUTZ
Treasurer, LEO COX
Secretary, DAVID SULLIVAN
Sergeant-at-Arms, DENNIS CROWLEY

A loud cheer for Dr. Callanan! Once again, his unending patience, understanding, and magnificent supervision of the Literary Club produced a superbly entertaining program.

The Literary Club is growing bolder every year. In the fall, an intelligent lad made a valiant attempt to interest club members in science-fiction. After his one "essai," it was decided that such matters should be left to the now defunct Science-Fiction Club. Some interesting and enlightening talks, however, on the late Dylan Thomas were presented by Mr. Leahy; and a captivating report on Synge's "Riders to the Sea" was given by Mr. Gavin.

In accordance with the "forward look," the Literary Club introduced the use of phonograph records to supplement its program. Among the outstanding readings were "The Juggler of Our Lady" and "The Cask of Amon-tillado." Much of the credit for this year's success goes to the Club's capable officers.

Mathematics Club

President, ALPHONSE VASQUEZ
Vice-President, ARTHUR COLLIAS
Secretary, PAUL EPSTEIN
Treasurer, STANLEY SOBOL

Under the guidance of Mr. Greenhalge, the Mathematics Club has completed a very enjoyable season. Trigonometry and logarithms, geometry and binomial theorems were pursued with the greatest avidity. The Faculty Adviser, Mr. Greenhalge, deserves much of the credit for keeping on the Club's tradition of helping and encouraging boys interested in mathematics.

A common sight when the meetings are over is a group of brain-weary Seniors stepping out of the room, with a wilting slide-rule drooping over one shoulder and a well-thumbed log-table over the other. Gradually, their conversation goes off on a tangent (the same tangent which can be found in any good geometry book). Their feet shuffle under the weight of $E=mc^2$, and they turn around to face the portals of Room 220, chanting softly the motto of the Math Club: "Secant you shall find . . . Secant you shall find . . ."

Meteorology Club

President, MARSHALL COGAN
Vice-President, MARK KAPLAN
Secretary, LISANIO ORLANDI
Treasurer, ROBERT SPENCE
Sergeant-at-Arms, ROBERT WATKINS

As a result of the organizing ability of the officers and Mr. Jackmauh, the Meteorology Club has enjoyed its most successful year. The main objective of the Club is to aid students in understanding the weather.

To arouse interest, simple explanations about weather forecasting were given by the officers, aided by Mr. Jackmauh. To build up further interest, members brought in pictures.

In future years, the club hopes to develop a continually broadening sphere of endeavor in many phases of meteorology. Mr. Jackmauh and the officers hope that students will not only become more aware of the natural conditions around them, but also make active professional strides in Meteorology.

Model Crafts Club

President, PAUL DONLAN
Vice-President, RICHARD BARRINGER
Secretary-Treasurer, JAMES SELUTA

In the meetings every other Wednesday, members of the Model Crafts Club were afforded the opportunity to display their interest in model construction and to exchange ideas on the various phases of handicrafts. This club is unique in the school in that it is the only one to foster interest in the manual arts.

After the completion of its chef-d'oeuvre, the "Nautilus", the club has settled down to more prosaic, though still interesting, chores. Despite rumors, it is not true, however, that they are engaged in full-scale work on rotisseries to be used in preparation of lunchroom chicken-soup.

This season the Faculty Adviser has been Mr. Pheeney, who is to be commended for his able supervision throughout the year.

Modern History Club

President, JOEL SCHWARTZ
Vice-President, CHARLES NEEDLE
Secretary, THOMAS ECCLES
Treasurer, ARTHUR WALDSTEIN

It is no accident that the purpose of the Modern History Club is to discuss topics dealing with world problems. With this purpose, the Modern History Club should go on forever. Certainly members will never run out of topics. From the bottomless basket of world problems the following ones, just to name a few, were discussed:

Israel, in regard to its precarious geographical position; Germany, and the touchy question of unification; and what the mid-term Congressional elections of 1954 meant. These talks, like the others given during the year, were intelligently presented and gave support to the argument of many boys that the Modern History Club is the best club in the school.

The success of the group is largely due to Mr. Pearson, who supplies much interesting material that couldn't be found anywhere else.

Music Appreciation Club

According to a long-standing tradition, the members of the Music Appreciation Club are annually segregated: pro-Bolero enthusiasts on the right and students wearing glasses on the left. The Faculty Adviser, Mr. Finn, raises his right arm and shoots the opening gun. A battle ensues; . . . fierce snarls . . . menacing voices . . . a cloud of dust and a hearty . . .

Haydn's "Surprise Symphony" was well received, as were Brahms' "Symphony #1", "Piano Concerto", and "Variations on a Theme by Haydn". In a lighter vein "Peer Gynt" was played. Between records and conversations Mr. Finn served refreshments. The members express appreciation not only to Brahms et al., but also to Mr. Finn for his guidance and for the generosity he has shown in allowing the Club to meet at his home.

Oh, yes! — Meetings always run smoothly ever other Friday night except for a most annoying humming from the bottom of the heap: "Daaaa-da-da-dumm-da-da-da-dumm-da-da-dumm. Vive Ravel!"

Outing Club

This year a new club — the Outing Club — was established. The purpose of this organization is to advance the "time-honored" principles of sunshine, moonlight, fresh air, hunting, fishing, and camping. Each member is furnished with a strong determination and a sturdy body; the rest is up to the individual.

The highlight of this first year will be a picnic. Other activities suggested include turtle-egg hunting on the banks of the Muddy River, log-rolling contests on the Charles, cliff-dwelling on Mt. Washington, and girl-scouting at Nantasket Beach.

We wish to bow our humble heads in thanks to our illustrious founder, Pete ("Snatch-em") Strock, Commander-in-Chief. Also we express our gratitude to Bob ("Crazylegs") Potenza, who may be seen any night at the Totem Pole; Glenn ("Can Can") Peters, chief of the wampum department; and Dave ("Voo Doo") Sullivan, who was last seen at Nantasket.

On a serious note, the Club wishes to thank its faculty adviser, Mr. Powers, for his help. The officers hope that the Club will take a high place among organizations.

Radio Club

President, JOHN DOBBYN

1st Vice President, ALPHONSE VASQUEZ

2nd Vice-President, BENJAMIN PELTZ

Secretary-Treasurer, ROBERT SOLOMON

The hopes of the Yearbook staff were shattered when they found out the impracticability of printing the Radio Club report in Morse Code. To make amends, we are printing it in English.

Much credit is in order to Mr. Sullivan and the student instructors for curing enough hams this year to operate a successful amateur station, W1TEM. Thirty members have received novice licenses; and all, of course, are expected to qualify for General Class licenses which allow them to manage the station.

Record Club

This year saw the founding and organization of a new organization — The Record Club. The purpose of the Club is to develop a keener interest in the various fields of popular music and to keep members informed on current musical events.

The first meeting was highlighted by a visit from Freddy Guerra, the very popular conductor, whose orchestra may be heard every weekend, both on television and at the beautiful Totem Pole Ballroom.

Several talks pertaining to various phases of popular music were given throughout the year. An auction, which enabled the members to buy or sell records, was held. Record quizzes aided participants in acquiring valuable information about their hobby as well as rewarding the winners with some new records. Needless to say, the best recordings in "pop" music were played at the beginning of each meeting.

Our sincere thanks to the following officers for a job well done: Warren Murray, Committee Chairman; Bob Ryan, Chairman of Activities; Bob Herman, Public Relations; Harry Wieman, Sergeant-at-Arms; Tony Pepe, Jack Dobbyn, Tom Memmolo, and Bill Tedesco — members of the Committee. Members are very grateful to Mr. Dobbyn for his kind advice and supervision during this extremely successful first year.

Red Cross Club

Under the helpful guidance of Mr. Powers, the Red Cross Club is constantly seeking ways in which to aid the Boston chapter of the Red Cross. This year, in addition to the courses in First Aid, they have aided CARE in sending parcels overseas, helped other organizations throughout the school, and served in hospitals and blood centers as volunteers.

The eagerness and interest with which the members worked toward their goal and the full support given by the officers and advisers made this season outstanding in the Club's short history. Founded in 1949, it has overcome the unwieldiness experienced in the first few years of its existence and has stepped forward as one of the school's most diligent clubs.

Under the able supervision of Mr. Powers, the organization should continue to flourish and pursue its aim: to develop a spirit of generosity in the members so that they will aid those who are in need.

Rod and Gun Club

President, HARRY CONTOS

Vice-President, THOMAS JOSEPH

Secretary, JAMES TURNER

Treasurer, JAMES HEALY

Mr. Fielding, Captain Kelley, and the officers of the Rod and Gun Club deserve much credit for getting the organization off to a good start. Realizing the need for such a club in the school, they established the group to promote interest in hunting and fishing among the students. In its first year the Club, of course, was most occupied with the problems which accompany the formation of a new organization: enrollment, functions, and funds. In addition, they were handicapped by the fact that they had started later than most of the clubs. Despite these setbacks, enough interest has been shown by the students to insure the continuance of the Club next year.

The members have good reason to appreciate the efforts of the advisers and the officers in guiding the Club through its most difficult year and in having it recognized throughout the school.

Sailing Club

President, JOSEPH GORDON
Vice-President, ROBERT PACKARD
Secretary, ROBERT SOLOMON
Treasurer, ERNEST HADDAD
Sergeant, JOHN GRANT
Sergeant, ELIAS DIKMAK

"Sail on; sail on!" perhaps sums up felicitously the reason for the existence of the Sailing Club; for in the hearts of its members is an understandable love for the sea and ships. The Club fulfilled their desire for more nautical information. Certainly this was its most successful season for many informative meetings were held. Lectures, films, and talks made clear sailing rules, principles of navigation, nomenclature of boats, and racing tactics. Although the club was successful in its endeavors, the long-range purpose (that of promoting sailing and sailboat racing as a recognized sport among the members of the school) has not yet been accomplished. It is certain that, under the able leadership of Mr. Pheeney, the goal will be reached.

Science Club

President, LEONARD KATZ
Vice-President, MICHAEL RUTTENBERG
Secretary-Treasurer, PAUL EPSTEIN

The Science Club has once again enjoyed a highly successful year. This organization offers to its members the most diversified meetings of any club in the School. In keeping with the scientific advancements of this day and age, atomic energy and electronics were among the most frequently discussed topics.

The principal objective of the club is to induce its members to submit exhibits to the annual Boston Science Fair. One member, Michael Ruttenberg, has won a national award.

The Club owes much of its success to the constructive advice and wise counsel of Mr. Boylan, the faculty adviser, and to its able officers.

Social Science Club

President, PAUL TRAPANI
Vice-President, BURTON MELNICK
Secretary, MARTIN MAX
Treasurer, ROBERT STACKS

In an attempt to acquaint the younger members of the school with present-day affairs, the Social Science Club, under the leadership of Mr. Avery, began its second year. The boys discussed customs and trends of our civilization and its governments. Motion pictures were shown and excursions made so that members of the club were constantly adding to their knowledge of the community. Mr. Avery deserves much credit for offering such informative programs to the students.

Stamp Club

President, PAUL CUTTER

Vice-President,

GEDIMINAS SVEIKAUSKAS

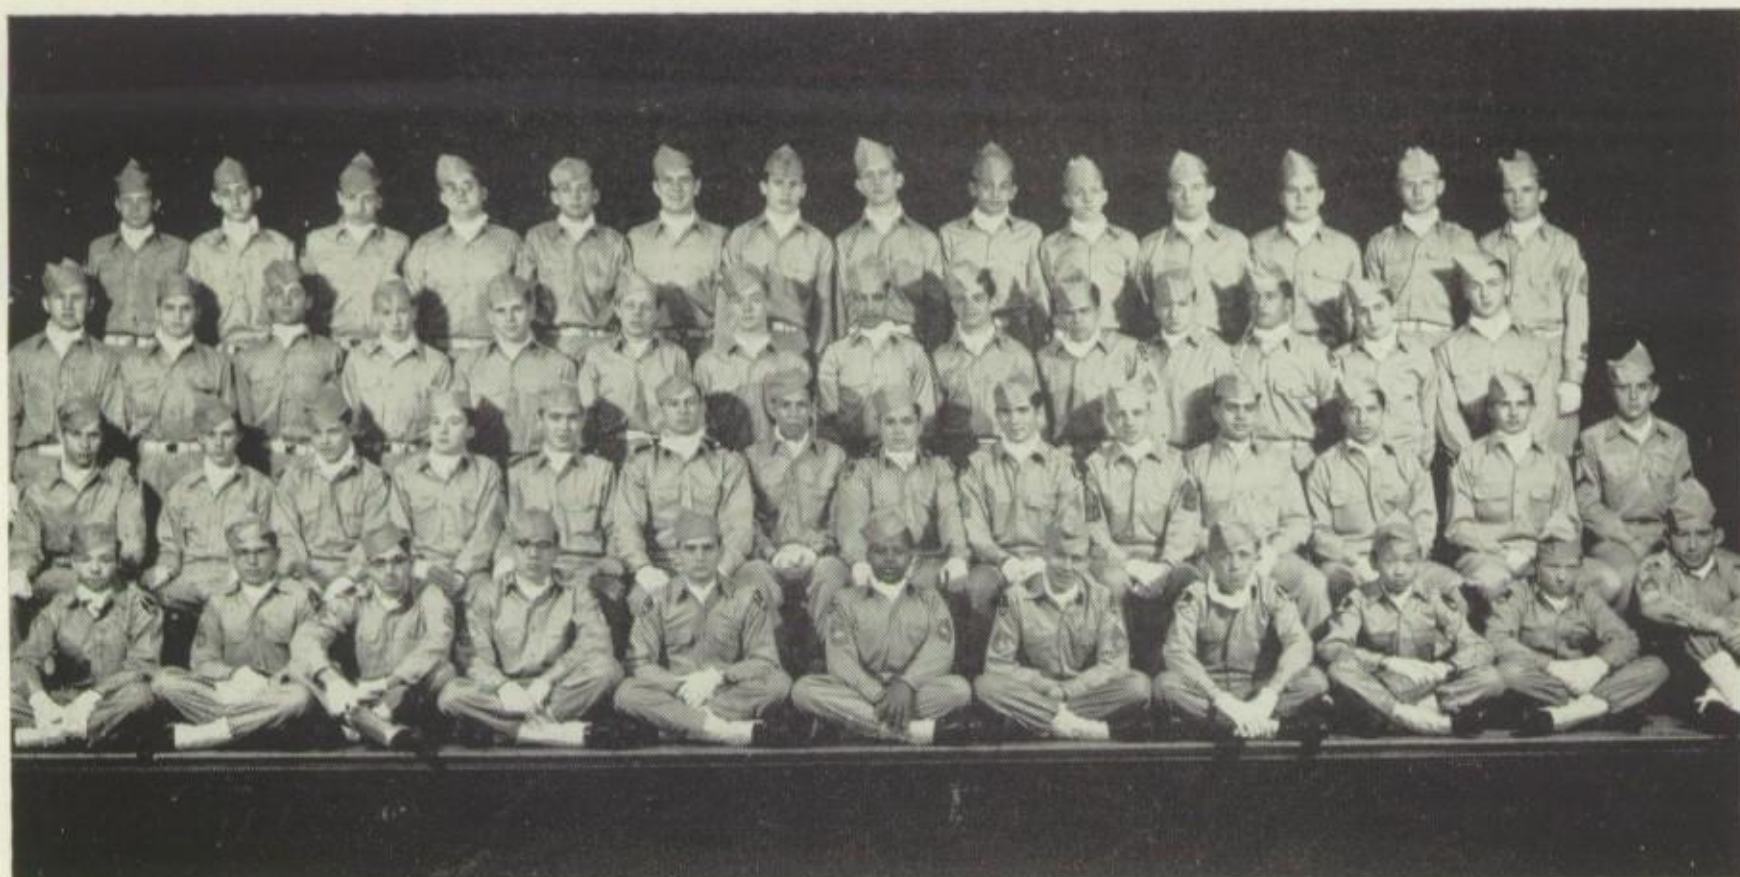

Treasurer, MYRON KAPLAN

Secretary, LEOPOLD SVEIKAUSKAS

Again this year the Club has lived up to the tradition that the Stamp Club never takes a licking. Among the features which have contributed to the Club's success are auctions, philatelic quizzes, and extensive trading of stamps among members. Talks were delivered on "Pre-Cancels", "First-Day Covers", and other subjects of interest. These discussions were found helpful and informative to the less experienced collectors.

Members are grateful to Mr. McGuffin for his efforts to maintain the high standards of the Club. The Stamp Club must also be commended for its co-operation with the Aardvarks in trying to promote a semi-postal to help these destitute animals.

Trick Drill Team

The Trick Drill Team was successfully conducted under the invaluable supervision of Captain Kelly. The T.D.T., which is in its fourth year, has brought honor upon honor to the school. The T.D.T. was awarded First Prize in the National Honor Society Revue, marched in the St. Patrick's Day Parade, performed between the halves of the English-Latin game, and acted as ushers during the music convention at the Hotel Statler.

Under the leadership of Captain "Lou" Johnson, the boys ran through their practice paces twice a week. The team is composed of a Senior and a Junior division, each of which consists of an élite group, carefully selected for excellence in drill. It is from their ranks that the splendid Color Guard has been organized. The outstanding exhibitions of "snap and precision" of this prize-winning outfit would, however, not be possible without the patience, expert advice, and guidance of Captain Kelly. Congratulations, Captain, for a job well done.

MUSICAL ORGANIZATIONS

Once again Latin School boys were able to eat in the lunchroom to the tempo of a waltz or a march. This circumstance was brought about by music coming from the Rehearsal Room, where the Orchestra, the Band, or the Drum and Bugle Corps was playing. Despite the absence of "binaural instruments," all three musical organizations had a good year for volume and resonance.

At assemblies throughout the year, the boys of the Orchestra gave very creditable performances. Much credit must be given to Mr. Joseph Trongone, who once more waved the baton and in no small way accounted for the overall excellence of the group. The skill of the Orchestra may be proved by their numerous contributions to the Boston Schools Symphony Orchestra membership.

The Band — with Captains Thomas Eccles, Paul Epstein, and Ronald Stone leading the way — gave a sparkling performance at the English-Latin game. Mr. Trongone is to be credited once more for making the Band of this year the best-playing in many years. No one will be greatly surprised if the Band once again takes top honors in the Parade.

Each year the Drum and Bugle Corps gives a better performance at Prize Drill. Under the direction of Captains Arthur Collias, Richard Hanlon, and Walter Faggett, this year should be no exception. The group is expected to repeat their championship performance of 1954.
